

Senate Report Criticizes Navy On Texas Tower

Blames Designers,
Builders, Air Force
For Jan. 15 Tragedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate report today sternly criticized the Navy and the designers and builders of the radar "Texas Tower" that collapsed in a blizzard and carried all hands — 28 men — to their deaths.

The report — which added that the Air Force must also shoulder its share of the blame — bitterly referred to "buckpassing" and "the hodge-podge of indecision."

The terrific forces of winds and waves were clearly miscalculated, the report said.

Wrecked in Storm

The 5,000-ton steel structure, perched like a giant three-legged stool in open sea 80 miles off the New Jersey coast, was battered and driven to ocean bottom last Jan. 15 by gale winds and waves.

Earlier this month, the Air Force ordered Col. William M. Banks to stand court-martial, charged with being derelict in duty in connection with the tragedy. Banks was in command of the Boston Air Defense center and the tower was part of its radar network.

The Air Force said Banks had failed to keep himself apprised of the tower's situation. The court-martial's date has not been announced, except that it will start after July 17 at Stewart Air Force Base, N.Y.

In a statement, Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Defense Preparedness subcommittee, said a careful examination of expert witnesses "reveals that the design criteria, upon which the final structural integrity was to be based, was clearly inadequate."

"This inadequacy must be charged to the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks and the structural design engineers," Stennis said.

Assembly Votes Highway Budget Of $382 Million

MADISON (AP)—The Assembly today passed and sent to the Senate a $382 million highway fund budget for the 1961-63 biennium. The $17.5 million originally requested by Gov. Gaylord Nelson for the Motor Vehicle Department finally was approved by the Assembly at a figure nearly one million dollars less.

The Joint Finance Committee originally had cut $965,000 from the department's request, the bills in the Rules Committee is a blow not only to Kennedy but also to Speaker Sam Rayburn, who won a five-vote victory early in the session over Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee, in a bitter fight for its control.

When Rayburn won the way, the measure which seemed open for Kennedy's support to repeal the 15 cent per gallon tax on oleomargarine. The events have played into Smith's hands in the school fight and he now appears firmly in control.

The Assembly voted 50-32 to let it go. The final vote on the total highway budget was 85-6.

Kennedy Warns Soviets Against Aggression in Crisis Over Berlin

Khrushchev Offers To Discuss German Issues With West

Warns Against Military Buildup to Strengthen Hand

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev offered today to negotiate on Berlin and Germany but warned the West against trying a military buildup to strengthen its hand.

"We are ready to negotiate honestly," he told a Soviet-North Vietnamese friendship meeting at the Kremlin.

In a televised speech Khrushchev said "there will be no blockade of Berlin" but he repeated an old Soviet condition — western recognition of the East German Communist government.

Khrushchev warned that if any Western country mobilizes because of the Berlin crisis "we shall take proper measures and, if necessary, measures to increase our combat might."

Discussing Germany, he mentioned various measures which the Western press has discussed as possible countermeasures if the Soviet Union signs a separate East German peace treaty, thus throwing doubt on the Western position in West Berlin.

He said, "Gentlemen, you do not frighten us," Khrushchev said. "A peace treaty will be concluded."

He talked about the possible breaking of diplomatic relations by Western nations and said this was not a new threat, but a possibility that would only hurt the West.

"Your policy of threats will not frighten us," he said. Khrushchev declared that the military might of both sides now is about equal.

WASHINGTON (AP)—House leaders have just about given up hope that President Kennedy's multibillion-dollar aid to education program can be put to a vote this session.

A deep split among Democrats on the Rules Committee over the issue of aid for parochial schools apparently has doomed both Kennedy's $2.5-billion public school bill and a $1.8-billion extension of the National Defense Education Act.

The House has a long history of opposition to school bills, having killed three in the last eight years. This time the addition of religious controversy to the normal opposition of conservatives has made the going even tougher.

The threatened demise of the bills in the Rules Committee is a blow not only to Kennedy but also to Speaker Sam Rayburn, who won a five-vote victory early in the session over Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the Rules Committee, in a bitter fight for its control.

When Rayburn won the way, the measure which seemed open for Kennedy's support to repeal the 15 cent per gallon tax on oleomargarine. The events have played into Smith's hands in the school fight and he now appears firmly in control.

Conference Told in Kennedy Note President May Receive Housing Bill by Nightfall

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $5.6-billion compromise housing bill, one of the largest ever considered, was ready today for final congressional approval.

Democratic leaders announced they would try to rush the bill to the President by tonight.

Spokane, D-Idaho, chief sponsor of the measure, said he would call it up soon after the Senate convenes. The House is to act later in the afternoon.

Convict Finds Unique Grounds for Appeal

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—A state prison convict has found unique grounds to appeal his sentence. He says his prison term is illegal because a 48-star flag was in the courtroom.

A motion to appeal was filed yesterday by Donald Laird, 35, Kennedy said this support is a source of strength in his meetings May 12 to 17 years in prison for two burglaries. He protested then judge of the U.S. 7th Circuit Court to Judge Ralph Fusco that the flag didn't have 50 stars.

Urges Self-Determination For Germany as Basis of Added Talks With Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today called the Berlin crisis Soviet manufactured. He told the Russians it would be a "grave mistake" to try to undermine Western unity "by threats or fresh aggressive acts."

"There is peace in Germany and in Berlin," Kennedy said at a news conference. "If it is disturbed it will be a direct Soviet responsibility."

Kennedy spoke solemnly of "the gravity of this threat" by the Soviets against the integrity of West Berlin. He called on Russia to join with the Western powers in discussion of what he termed the unfinished business of German problems.

"Discussion," he said, "will be profitable if the Soviets will accept in Berlin — and indeed in Europe — self-determination, which they profess in other parts of the world, and if they will work sincerely for peace rather than an extension of power."

Can't Affect Rights

The president set forth his views shortly after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev offered in Moscow to negotiate on Berlin and Germany—but warned the West against attempting any military buildup in that area to strengthen its hand.

Kennedy said nothing Russia does can affect the West's rights in Berlin.

It was Kennedy's first news conference since June 25.

Boredom Seen As 'Sickness' Of Americans

NEW YORK (AP)—A Harvard doctor checking the nation's mental and emotional health today declared: "The great sickness of our age is aimlessness, boredom, and lack of meaning and purpose in living."

We can be enthralled by the space age, but almost willfully try to avoid "learning how to do for the past 14 years," said Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth, director of Harvard University health services and staff physician at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

Need Objective

"Medicine has made enormous strides in alleviating pain and prolonging life," he said. Now an expanded task for doctors is to give "meaning to the life," Farnsworth told the American Medical Association's 110th annual meeting.

He suggested some ways to do this, to overcome the boredom and the sick feelings.

Mental health, he said, is that state of mind in which people can carry on their activities with satisfaction to themselves, with some responsibility to others, and without making nuisances of themselves to large numbers of other people.

"All persons, with or without a mental health, are obliged to suffer in various ways," he continued.

"It is the nature of man to experience frustration, grief, pain, tension, conflict, jealousy, fear and anxiety."

"Happiness is a by-product of resolving—in part or wholly—exasperating and difficult situations."

Warm Weather Will Continue in State

Wisconsin — Partly cloudy, warm and humid today with scattered thunderstorms developing this afternoon. Partly cloudy tonight with scattered thunderstorms likely in the south and east portions with little temperature change. Thursday partly cloudy and continued warm with chance of afternoon or evening thunderstorm in the extreme south and west portions. High today 84-90. Low tonight, mostly in the 60s.

Appleton — Temperatures during the 24-hour period ending at 10 a.m. today: High, 86; low, 64, temperature at 10 a.m. 82. Wind out of southwest, at eight miles an hour. Barometer at 29.9 inches. There was no precipitation.

Seeks Quick End to Long Algerian War

DeGaulle Plans Return of Some French Divisions With Eye to Strengthening Forces of NATO

PARIS (AP) — A stepped-up drive by President Charles de Gaulle for a quick end to the seven-year Algerian war was under way today.

It includes bringing French divisions back from the North African territory to the continent, resuming suspended talks with rebel leaders and a renewed threat to partition Algeria into European and Moslem sectors if negotiations fail again.

De Gaulle's aim, according to informed sources, is to break the Algerian impasse in three months—one way or another—in order to make French forces available by fall for the looming crisis in Berlin.

Weakened Position
The bulk of France's armed forces, an estimated half million men, is tied down in Algeria. Their absence has weakened the North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense position in Western Europe.

De Gaulle disclosed his new Algerian drive at a garden party at the presidential Elysee Palace Tuesday night. In an informal discussion with reporters, he said he had issued orders for the return of one division from Algeria. Without fixing dates, he added he would order others back as well. A French division is about 15,000 men.

Besides strengthening NATO forces on the European continent, the redeployment might also be intended as a peace gesture to the nationalist rebels.

De Gaulle said the peace talks with the rebels—broken off at Evian-Bains two weeks ago—will be resumed and "we will see what happens."

Key Bases
The president made clear that he will continue to insist on future association between an independent Algeria and France, including French retention of key military bases, and guarantees for the French minority in the North African territory. Otherwise, he said, France will regroup the European and Moslem populations and partition Algeria.

France would concentrate the one million Europeans around the main coastal cities—Algiers, Constantine, Bone and Oran — and leave the vast interior for the nine million Moslems to manage as best they can. The rebel National Liberation Front (NLF) bitterly opposes this, knowing the hinterland cannot live without the ports and the agricultural coastal strip.

De Gaulle said an Algerian settlement and "the day when there will no longer be a risk of crimes" would bring an end to the near-dictatorial powers he has exercised since the abortive army mutiny in Algiers two months ago.

"There will no longer even be any need for De Gaulle," he added.

Kennedy Okays State Projects
Military Building Includes Green Bay Guard Armory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several Wisconsin projects were included in the military construction bill signed by President Kennedy Tuesday, authorizing around $893 million in the year beginning July 1.

The Wisconsin items are: Army National Guard armories—Baraboo, $171,000, Ft. Atkinson $171,000; Eau Claire, $240,000; Green Bay $205,000, and Portage $150,000.

The proposed site at Green Bay is a 12-acre plot on the U.S. 41 beltline west of the city.

Air National Guard — Mitchell Field, Milwaukee, operational and maintenance facilities, $923,000, Truax Field, Madison, $300,000, and Volk Field at Camp Williams, $536,000—both for operational facilities.

Michigan, Air Force—Kincheloe AFB, Sault Ste. Marie, maintenance, supply and community facilities, $256,000; K. K. Sawyer Municipal Airport, Marquette, operational, maintenance and community facilities and troop housing, $1,468,000.

Philippine Guerilla Won't be Able to Attend Celebration
MANILA (AP) — Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, 92 and ailing, probably will not be able to attend the 15th anniversary celebration of Philippine independence July 4.

Members of his family said today it is highly unlikely that the old guerilla, who fought Spain and the United States for Philippine independence at the turn of the century, will be permitted to attend.

Governors to Take Up Action On Civil Rights

Edmund Brown Aids GOP in Forcing Issue at Meeting

HONOLULU (AP) — California's Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown gave a helping hand today to Republicans seeking to force Governors' Conference action on civil rights.

Brown said he intends to vote in the resolutions committee to place before the conference a proposal by 15 Republican governors for affirmative state action to end racial discrimination.

Republican Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon said in a separate interview that Brown's vote, combined with those of four Republicans, would furnish the margin to force the resolution out of the nine-member committee for debate.

Civil Rights
The civil rights controversy was one of several expected to engage the governors in a windup business session of their 53rd annual conference.

Barring unexpected developments, a nominating committee headed by GOP Gov. John H. Reed of Maine was ready to recommend the election of Gov. Wesley Powell of New Hampshire as new chairman of the conference. Powell would succeed Democratic Gov. Stephen L. McNichols of Colorado under a conference tradition of rotating the chairmanship yearly between members of the two major parties.

Some Republicans complained Powell was being forced upon them by Democrats who didn't want the conference honor to go to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, President Kennedy's possible opponent in the 1964 presidential contest.

Rebuked by Nixon
Powell was rebuked by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon during the 1960 presidential campaign for suggesting that Kennedy was soft on communism. The New Hampshire governor has made it clear that he has no intention of supporting Nixon for the 1964 nomination if the latter seeks it. Hatfield said a scheduled meeting of the GOP state executives to discuss the matter had been called off "because the Democrats can outvote us and we see no sense in dividing among ourselves on the question of the chairmanship."

13,595 White House Visitors Sets Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House set a record for the number of sightseeing visitors Tuesday — 13,595 were checked through the gate.

The old record of 13,330 was recorded just a week ago.

Proxmire Testimony

Claims Voice Lost in Selecting Candidates

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today the rank and file voter now has no real chance to say which men will carry the banners of the Democratic and Republican parties in the presidential elections.

Theoretically, he said, the national party conventions are Democratic institutions but, in fact, do not represent the wishes of the party members.

In testimony prepared for a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, Proxmire urged approval of his bill that would establish a national presidential primary.

Primary Bills
The subcommittee has held a series of hearings on the federal candidates who had a majority election system and has under consideration various bills re-garding primaries and qualifications of voters.

"In a Democratic form of government such as ours, it is the electorate, and by this I mean all of the electorate, which should have the right to say who should be its governing officials," Proxmire said.

Under Proxmire's bill, which would require an amendment to the constitution, any candidate who wished to seek his party's nomination would file a petition bearing signatures equal to at least 1 per cent of the votes cast in the previous presidential election.

Early August
A national presidential nominating primary would be held in early August of presidential election years. Each state would be entitled to as many votes as it has in the electoral college. The series of hearings on the federal candidates who had a majority election system and has under consideration various bills re-garding primaries and qualifications of voters.

The national conventions would nominate the vice presidential candidates and the writing of the party platforms.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas briefs newsmen today outside the White House following the weekly breakfast meeting with President Kennedy, attended by Democratic leaders. In the background are Lawrence O'Brien, glasses, special assistant to the President, and Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma. Rayburn predicted House passage of an aid-to-education bill and said domestic legislation and Latin American relations were discussed.

State Closer to Requiring 4-Year Degrees for Teachers

New Version Of Old Bill Wins Approval

MADISON (AP)—The State Assembly mched closer Tuesday to requiring four-year degrees for all Wisconsin teachers.

Passed was a measure to require public school teachers with two-year degrees to earn an additional eight college credits a year while teaching and get their four-year degrees within seven years after starting to teach.

The final form of the bill was an amended version of a measure which would have required all Wisconsin teachers to have four-year college degrees after 1972. Wisconsin law now requires teachers with only two years of college training to complete another two years and get a four-year degree within seven years. Supporters of higher degree standards for the state's teachers criticized the Assembly action.

Called Smokescreen
"It was a smokescreen that does nothing to strengthen requirements," said Assemblyman Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford.

The Assembly killed a bill to appropriate $100,000 for 1961-63 to set up a system of scholarships for Wisconsin students who attend schools in other states to study forestry, veterinary medicine and architecture.

A bill to increase fees on driver

er's licenses to pay for driver training in schools passed the Assembly 22-11.

New license fees would go from $2 to $2.50 and instruction permits from $1 to $2 under terms of the bill. The bill would raise an estimated $1 million a year.

The funds would be paid high schools and vocational schools on the basis of $25 for each student who successfully completes an accredited course in driver education.

Other Measures
New legislation introduced included a bill to remove the Bureau of Personnel from the State Department of Administration.

Other measures call for: A $50,000 appropriation to acquire lands in the Blue Hill area of Barron and Rusk counties for development of Glacier State Park.

Boosting the salary of the state superintendent of public instruction from $17,000 to $20,000 a year. Reclassifying the mourning dove as a songbird to protect it from hunters.

GOP Threatening to Amend New Aid Bill

Anti-Red China Resolution May be Attached if Not Passed Separately

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., raised a Republican threat today to try to attach an anti-Red China resolution to President Kennedy's foreign aid bill.

Dirksen, Senate Republican leader, said the State Department is against action now by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on a resolution opposing diplomatic recognition for Red China and its admission to the United Nations.

Unless such a resolution can be passed separately, Dirksen told reporters, it will be offered as an amendment to the $4.8-billion foreign aid bill when that measure reaches the Senate floor.

Berlin Issue
Dirksen said Red China and the critical Berlin issue will be discussed by Republican Senate and House leaders at a news conference this afternoon following a GOP leadership meeting.

"It's my judgment the country is ahead of the President and Congress on Berlin," Dirksen declared. "The country believes the time has come for an absolutely firm stand."

"The people believe the time has come to stop Khrushchey from kicking us around and permitting this erosion of the free world inch by inch."

While Dirksen indicated the Republicans would have to await any discussion of Berlin by Kennedy before commenting further on that subject, he said "we have expressed some concern over inaction by the Foreign Relations Committee on the resolution to continue to deny recognition to Red China and oppose its admission to the United Nations."

No Action
"It appears the State Department has expressed hope the committee will take no action on this resolution at the present time," Dirksen added.

Other Republicans have voiced concern that the United States might consider a policy change under which it would accept Red China's admission to the United Nations if Nationalist China's seat can be held in that body.

Dirksen said that the Senate and House have expressed themselves many times in opposition to Red China's recognition and UN seating in previous foreign aid bills and that he or some other Republican will offer such an amendment again "unless we get action otherwise."

U. S. Can Shore Up Policy In Critical Mideast Area

BY GEORGE WELLER
Chicago Daily News Service

ROME — The present lull in the Middle East and the sag in Soviet standing there offer the United States a chance for reforming its fuddled program of motives.

The United States needs:

A country-by-country policy, because the Middle East is a constant clash of rivalries.

A clear and unwasteful economic program that openly decries the wasteful forms of socialist spending — like the steel plants of Turkey and the United Arab Republic — and supports broad ownership of industry and land reform under small ownership, not federal tenancy.

A means of checking often, through visits by citizen and congressional committees, where U.S. money is going and what kind of policy is resulting.

An improved radio transmitter to compensate for the streams of anti-American propaganda poured out mainly by Cairo and Moscow.

A policy toward Middle East students that educates them in the United States and then sends them home again, instead of keeping them as academic tramps.

In 14 years of pouring money into the Middle East, the United States has not yet been able to build a radio station that could speak to the Arab by daylight. The Arab, no reader, is a dawn-to-dusk listener. These are the hours when American medium wave transmissions are weakest.

The United States has weak stations, faraway stations, dull stations. It has transmitters in Rhodes, Tangier, Liberia. They can be heard by the one Arab in 10,000 who can afford a shortwave receiver — if he can tune out the overpowering boom of the Soviet and U.A.R. stations.

Proposals Muddled

For 10 years a muddle of proposals, secret contracts, deals and unfulfilled plans have been kicking around for a new transmitter in Turkey, on Cyprus, on Rhodes. But nothing firm has been done.

No Arab is going to lose his sleep waiting for the United States to bounce its long wave message at night off the ionosphere layer to the little four-transistor set in his tent or lighthouse. If the United States hasn't found a way to reach him by daylight, it's America's fault.

In Iran the United States has been subsidizing a Persian racket club of millionaires and generals, busy mainly in carving up Tehran's suburbs for more land profits, and ducking taxes.

This franchise-selling machine evokes only one question from the ordinary Persian rug seller: What do the Americans think they are buying, saving him rich from paying taxes?

In Israel the U.S. government spends a bare $30,000,000 a year. But the tax-exempt $150,000,000 poured in yearly by American Zionists to a merchant-military state surrounded by boycott and hostility evokes the same bewilderment.

What the United States seems to need is a bold frequent assertion of its belief in a tax-controlled system of free enterprise.

Unable, Unauthorized

American ambassadors on the spot, wary of "intervention," seem unable, or unauthorized, to strike hard at socialist inefficiency, capitalist corruption and racial blackmail.

In retaliation for a Zionist-promoted strike against his ships in New York harbor, Abdel Gamal Nasser ordered all American ships boycotted in Arab ports.

Not one shaft of American decision lightened the lugubrious silence surrounding this duel by reminding the world of Nasser's continued refusal to let Israeli vessels use the Suez Canal.

The Middle East needs to be reminded that the Soviet oil colossus, penetrating Europe, is taking the bread of oil sales out of their mouths.

A dozen American embassies drowse away the summer, with this razor-sharp weapon lying unused in their laps.

The Kennedy administration, it is understood, has in the works one of those bold plans for settlement of the Palestine problem that always cost the United States more aid.

The plan is said to call for a token settlement of a few of the million Arab refugees in their lost homes by American aid. (We now pay about $35,000,000 through the UN to feed the refugees.)

Launched in Lull

This is the sort of plan which, launched into the present lull, is perfect to Washington's ears but unsupportable in the Middle East.

All American aid to the Palestine Arabs is interpreted as gullible money or hush-money.

When Israel overran the Arab lands, two countries raced to recognize her. The Russia of Joseph Stalin and the United States of Harry Truman.

The Soviets put up the arms through the Communist factories of Czechoslovakia. The American Zionists put up the money.

The Americans — so the Arabs think — must feel guilty about what they did. Otherwise, why should they for 14 years have spent government money to support the million Arabs, even if it is paid through the UN?

The Soviets, who wanted an Israel to keep the Middle East afloat, never have paid a ruble to feed the Arab refugees. Evidently they don't feel guilty. So the Arabs accuse the payers, not the recipients.

With each outlay the United States deepens its "guilt." By every month that passes without a consistent demand for Soviet help, the United States becomes more firmly saddled with responsibility for Palestine.

NOT AN international conference should pass without the United States publicly demanding that the Soviets pay up their arrears, accepting full reciprocity in the Palestine story.

The Soviets would not pay easily, of course, but the impact on the Arab world would be immense. The demand is made now, but it is muffled in the UN debates.

The reported — but still officially unconfirmed — "Kennedy Plan" for an American buyoff of the Arabs, would be another chain linking the United States with Palestine. The United States would be crippled forever politically in the grievance-nursing Middle East. The Soviets would escape historical responsibility.

Needs Involvement

The Middle East needs a sense of being involved in the world of the Occident feeling that the Quakers call "a concern" about these peoples. Calling them "backward" or "underdeveloped" is about as helpful as doing the same thing to a growing child.

In going into the Middle East the United States will not be winning durable friends or loyal allies. The Middle East is the heart of the world's rampant opportunism. Here the two codes of East and West meet in chaos.

Nobody here knows the difference between a fee and a bribe, a pledge and an intention, an investment and a bet, a soldier and an engineer. When Nasser's colonels are poisoned, he puts them on the board of state factories, not as window-dressing as the United States does, but to run the enterprise.

Merchant Gentleman,

Only commercial honor is clear, the laws of purchase, debt and loss fully understood by 5,000 years of trading. The merchant is a gentleman, the politician an adventurer.

To "win" the Middle East would not be worth the money it would cost. Nor would it stay "won." The impulse to bargain limits all agreements until the arrival of the next offer.

An American program should emphasize reciprocity, not handouts. But in loans the United States should match the Soviet 2½ per cent rate, not wait to be wooed at 4 per cent or 5 per cent.

The built-in sense of inferiority and aggression in this area is

An English explorer found a towering plateau in central South America in 1909, and his description led Doyle to write his 1912 story of adventure, "The Lost World."

Search for Plateaus

Doyle's version peopled it with prehistoric monsters surviving into the present. Lamb isn't sure what he'll find, but he's convinced he can locate the plateau and somehow reach the top of it.

Lamb, 55, left this week by plane for Lima, Peru, to talk to Brian Fawcett, operator of a South American airline and son of Col. P. H. Fawcett.

It was Col. Fawcett who spotted the plateau from below, and wrote it in notes later read by Doyle. "Time and the foot of man have not touched these summits. They stood like a lost world. The imagination could picture the last vestiges of an age long vanished."

"Isolated, monsters from the dawn of history might still roam those heights."

From Lima, Lamb will proceed to Sao Paulo, Brazil, before pushing into the Matto Grosso jungle-land of southwest Brazil. He believes the lost plateau lies near the Bolivian border at the headwaters of the Rio Verde, a tributary to the distant Amazon.

Lamb's wife, Virginia, 47, will join him, probably in Sao Paulo, for the expedition.

Together the two paddled and sailed the length of Mexico in a canoe in 1938, and hiked the length of Mexico again in 1941 to search for an elusive "lost city of the Mayas." They wrote off-reprinted travel-adventure stories about both trips, and have lectured in all parts of the United States.

They told a newsman recently about their plans.

"I don't know how we'll get up on top of the plateau," he said. "Fawcett's notes don't say how high it is, but aerial maps show an abrupt plateau in the area rising more than 3,000 feet from the jungle floor."

"A helicopter would probably make it, or a light plane could land on top, if there was a place to set down. But this spot is more than 500 miles from the nearest airfield, and a small plane can't cover more than 125 miles or so."

Reports of the plateau inspired Sir Arthur Conan Doyle to write a story, "The Lost World," which populated the top of the plateau with prehistoric beasts that survived through the ages.

Selecting Wisconsin Judges

The Wisconsin system of electing judges by popular vote has worked out quite satisfactorily on the whole but there are many who think the system could be improved. The judiciary is such an important part of American government that Wisconsin should have the most satisfactory form of selecting judges that the people can agree upon.

Oddly enough, under the elective system, most of the vacancies are filled by appointment by the governor. This comes about largely because in Wisconsin sitting judges usually are reelected. Therefore, when vacancies occur, they seldom coincide with election time and so the task of selecting the successor often falls upon the governor.

However, those who favor appointment of judges point out that such systems usually call for the nomination of three or more candidates by a nonpartisan committee set up by the bar association. Under the present Wisconsin system, the governor is free to name any qualified person without consultation with an advisory committee. However, in practice the governors frequently consult with representatives of the bar.

At the recent meeting of the Wisconsin Bar Association, John E. Martin, chief justice of the Wisconsin Supreme Court, indicated he favored selection of judges by the governor from a list of nominees submitted by a nonpartisan committee of the bar. Justice Martin's suggestion is based upon many years of experience as a practicing lawyer, as attorney general of the State of Wisconsin, and as justice of the state supreme court. He has had many opportunities to notice the results of the elective system and of the appointive selection of judges in Wisconsin.

While the people of Wisconsin have done very well at the ballot boxes in most instances in the choice of judges, there have been some unfortunate choices and there always is the danger that some incompetent person will come into authority on the bench through the inadequacies of the elective system. For this reason there apparently is a growing sentiment in the state for changing the system of selecting judges. Justice Martin's statement should receive careful attention by both the political leaders and the members of the bar. If there is truly a better way of selecting judges the people of Wisconsin should have the benefit of it.

However, they came here to learn about America as well as to study various phases of government. In the matter of learning about America, we are of the opinion that Adeleke had the advantage. He met a situation of intense interest to him and, no doubt, has an understanding of the American attitude that could not be duplicated elsewhere.

A Nigerian Student Looks at Texas

David A. Adeleke, a 26-year-old Nigerian student who spent the past year at the University of Texas, said frankly at the end of the school year, "I didn't like that place."

Adeleke added hastily, "That section of the country is not representative of America."

Describing his experience, he said, "It is not describable, and not easy to understand. I was the only African from below the Sahara at the university. I had room and meals in a private establishment about three blocks from the campus. There was no other place near. None of the dormitories are integrated."

He said he had read about Little Rock and other places in the South and knew that things could be bad but, he said, "not as bad as I found them." Then as he tried to explain his feelings, he said, "When I wore native dress people would say, 'Oh he's not an American. He's all right.' But you don't want respect for your clothing. You want respect for your individuality."

As advice to Americans on how to treat foreign visitors, he says Americans should pay foreigners the respect they deserve, not as a dependent person or a subordinate. "If Americans will do that," he said, "the foreigners will respect them." Finally, "I don't have anything against this country. It is just that I am disappointed. You talk about democracy, but you don't practice it."

Adeleke was one of 19 students who came here from various countries to study government. It may seem that it was unfortunate that he was sent to Texas but that is not necessarily the whole truth. Other students in the group from Burma, Germany, Israel, Jordan, and Pakistan all had favorable comments about their year in American colleges and universities scattered across the country.

He is a highly intelligent person and we are quite confident that he, found Americans of varying degrees of prejudice and this is a condition which exists all over the world. It is quite certain that in the future he will come to realize that the people of Texas are not much different from the people of Nigeria and, if his people were given a problem to solve under the same conditions as the people of Texas are trying to solve their problem, there would be similar reactions among them.

The important thing, he will realize, is that the federal government has pointed to a solution and is striving to direct people in a better way of handling it. If he wants to compare Nigeria and America he soon will be asking himself if the Nigerian government has rules as good as those of America extending freedom and equality to all minority groups.

The dickering has revealed Castro for what he is to the poor peasants of Latin America. But even Ambassador Adlai Stevenson found no such evidence on his recent tour.

Dealing With Castro

The negotiations, if they can be so dignified, between Fidel Castro and a United States committee, sanctioned by the President, concerning an exchange of tractors for prisoners has reached a new height of the ridiculous. It isn't the tractors he wants after all, says Fidel. It's $28 million worth of stuff and three ruffians who are in American jails.

The committee trying to arrange the trade obviously was moved by humanitarian reasons. President Kennedy's backing probably came from a feeling of guilt since the ultimate responsibility was his for withholding air and sea support which doomed the Cuban invasion to failure. The U.S. Information Agency chief, Ed Murrow, has hopefully insisted that

There are some important questions to be answered by the U.S. government in reference to this attempted deal. Shall we now encourage people to revolt against tyrants. Keep from them the means of a successful revolution and then try to buy the survivors out of prison? Are we going to upset our system of jurisprudence and release convicted criminals, including a murderer, for an ever dwindling number of Cubans who may have nothing to do with the invasion at all?

necessarily a convincing sign that the people are opposed to the Americans but it does indicate that they perhaps are not definitely for or against either side. It may even mean a degree of uncertainty. Not long ago in Berlin a small group of Reds put on a demonstration in the American sector in support of Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's demand for a German treaty which would end Western Allies' rights.

The demonstration had no more than started when anti-Communists surrounded the Reds and forced them to halt their picketing. The Reds were roughed up but only the arrival of West Berlin riot police saved them from possible serious injury.

This incident indicates what happens when the people definitely know which side of the fence they are on. West Berlin citizens in the great majority are opposed to communism and they found a way to make their opinions known. Thus rioting does indicate the thinking of the people but in many instances it takes experts closely associated with the people to interpret them correctly.

Geography Professor Tries to Explain Origin, Struggle of Man

BY LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

Our planet has been in existence for longer than anyone can determine. It began either as a whirling sphere of flaming gases or a cloud of frigid dust and it was covered, at first, by vast oceans. When living matter evolved from the depths of these waters, land emerged in huge solid masses of stone. Much of this stone corroded into a mealy substance, called earth, and vegetation began.

When man appeared amidst this vast product of time, the world was much like it is today. Man has only been on earth during the last million years, but he has adapted what he has found and made it his world.

How this phenomenon has come about, how man has struggled and eventually won mastery over the world, is explained by Dr. George F. Carter, professor of geography at the Johns Hopkins University, in the current issue of "The Johns Hopkins Magazine."

Environment Molds Man
"The physical environment imposed its demands on man, forcing his body to adapt or perish," Dr. Carter writes. "It molded his mind, too, but in a different way, for while differing physical environments brought forth differing body forms, all environments demanded in man the ability to think quickly and surely . . . without regard to climate and soil."

At first, man lived in isolation, exposed to burning sun until the skin grew dark and tough, or exposed to extreme cold until the complexion paled and bodies thickened.

Then, about ten thousand years ago, with the invention of agriculture, man sought out the fertile lands. Here he settled and multiplied, and today, half the world's people live on only one-thirtieth of the land surface of the earth. The story of man's habitation of his planet is a story of illogic and contradiction," Dr. Carter says.

Story of Contradiction
For instance, man has constructed the great Egyptian civilization in the deserts of the Middle East, but in contrast he has produced almost nothing on an almost identical desert along the lower Colorado River. Man lives with the promise of atomic power in some areas and with stone implements from the Paleolithic period in others.

"If there is a dominant note in the history of man, it is that he makes his own world." He has done this, Dr. Carter says, through the use of ideas.

Only recently, Dr. Carter

points out, has Brazil, a land with far greater potential in its natural environment than America, begun to make intellectual and developmental strides toward becoming the powerful country that America has been for two centuries. The difference between the two countries is ideas.

Key to Man's Ideas
Ideas moved slowly at first, Dr. Carter says. He estimates that the idea of agriculture traveled at the rate of about one mile per year from the Near East, where it started, to North-west Europe.

The key to man's use of ideas is the boundaries he draws for these ideas to spread and develop. The great hindrance to civilization in underdeveloped countries is the suspicion and resistance with which ideas are treated.

Many lands still live without such important ideas as freedom and such revolutionary forces as industrialization, Dr. Carter states, but Asia, Africa and Latin America are beginning to stir.

"What remains to be seen is how this revolutionary change will be accomplished, and here lies a crucial turning point for civilization."

No Sense in Strike By Merchant Marine

From The N. Y. Herald-Tribune

The American merchant marine, a shrunken and economically distressed industry these days, now has to contend with a five-union strike that makes little or no sense.

Since the employers can't afford higher costs, the strikers are saying very little about higher wages, although there is a list of fringe benefits. And these, of course, cost money.

Also, the unions are greatly interested in getting a labor-management committee to study the whole maritime situation, which could do with new life. Their hope is to have some more government subsidy pumped labor's way.

Then, too, the strike is supposed to be a big test of strength

Looking Backward

'No Party' Cry Utter Hypocrisy

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 29, 1861.

The appointment of Judge Browning, said to be an estimable private citizen of no marked talent or capability, to fill the vacancy in the U. S. Senate, occasioned by the death of Stephen A. Douglas, is another proof of the utter hypocrisy of the cry of the late Republican partisans that "there is NO Party!"

How much more manly it would be for them to say: "We are responsible for the government of the country and shall fill all offices having a political influence with our own partisans." Instead of trying to delude people with the idea that they are willing to break down all party lines and divide all offices, asking only in return that the Democrats do just what their opponents knew they must in any case — sustain the Union and the Government with their lives if necessary.

We are frank to say that it is about time to stop this cry of

"there is no party." We have laid aside, not abandoned, our party warfare until the War is over. If, to make the War successful, it is necessary to give our support to our State and National administrations, that support shall be hearty and unqualified.

We do not, nor does the Democracy generally take this step in the expectation of obtaining civil offices, posts of honor or emolument, divided with them, but for the reason that above all party, creed or section, they love the American Union — the sole hope of all Christendom.

A group of Wisconsin delegates to the Democratic convention revolted against their chairman, William B. Rubin, Milwaukee, and talked of censuring him at a later meeting.

That a trend toward organization of a new liberal party was developing nationally was the belief of Congressman George J. Schneider, Appleton Progressive, who had returned from Washington.

The Misses Jeannette Jones and Betty Plowright, Menasha, and Miss Gwendolyn Babcock, Appleton, left by motor for Del Monte, Calif., where they were to attend the 1936 convention of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Iveaux Andersen was appointed temporary chairman of a fact finding committee to be composed of representatives of the three local service clubs to investigate the possibilities of reestablishing a "fair day" in Neenah. The meeting was called by Mayor Edwin Kalfas.

Legislators Abuse Use of Party Caucus

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The retired politician plumped himself into a seat in the legislative gallery and grumbled:

"This is legislation by caucus. These fellows don't even read the bills, but wait for explanations and instructions in the caucus. When I was around here we were expected to do our own reading and deciding. Some of these men don't even open their bill files."

The old fellow was a little cranky, as old fellows are prone to be. The youngsters never perform quite as well as dad did. Nostalgia distorts the view, in politics as in other human enterprises.

Yet his main criticism was a good one. The legislative caucus has significantly altered the legislative process in Wisconsin during the last decade, has reduced the importance of the individual and elevated the power of the group.

THE WAY IT WAS

Years ago, when the legislature was under the command of men of the same basic ideology as those who rule it today, the political party caucus was a fairly infrequent event. During the 1940's, for example, there were weekly caucuses of the majority Republicans of both houses, in a downtown hotel, with dinner or lunch.

At such occasional sessions the discussions were confined to the comparatively few basic policy issues — the major problems of the session. The hundreds of minor and often trivial measures were left for the disposition of the legislative committees, and there was no party discipline expected or imposed when they took their turn on the house calendars for votes.

Today the process has taken the other extreme. The houses are recessed at least once each day, sometimes several times, so that the caucus leadership can explain bills — important bills and insignificant bills — and know in advance what the disposition will be. Under such arrangements it is no longer necessary for the slothful or busy legislator to know precisely what each bill on the daily house calendar proposes to do. He will get an explanation in the caucus, and will know in advance whether it is going to pass or fail.

This reform has observed before that one of the obvious consequences of such procedures is the reduction of floor discussions to the barest essentials — except as the minority party may provide it. But the minority party also holds caucuses, for the same objectives, and tends to provoke debate largely for publicity and political propaganda purposes, rather than for the elucidation of the background and the meaning of the legislative proposals.

RESULTS

There are those who may doubt that the reduction of legislative speech-making is a bad thing, and on some of the harder days this chronicler has his own doubts.

Yet public discussion is one of the assurances of the public information without which the democratic system of government cannot long endure.

Another consequence of the private deliberation of bills and issues is the weakening of the position and the function of party leaders and standing committee chairmen. It used to be that the committee chairmen were responsible for advocating the position of the committees, for or against legislation. Today they merely preside at the hearings. Their leadership function, if any, is in the closed caucus room, beyond the gaze of the public. Aside from the considerations of democratic policy, the opportunities for these men to display themselves and to develop recognition and stature have been sharply reduced.

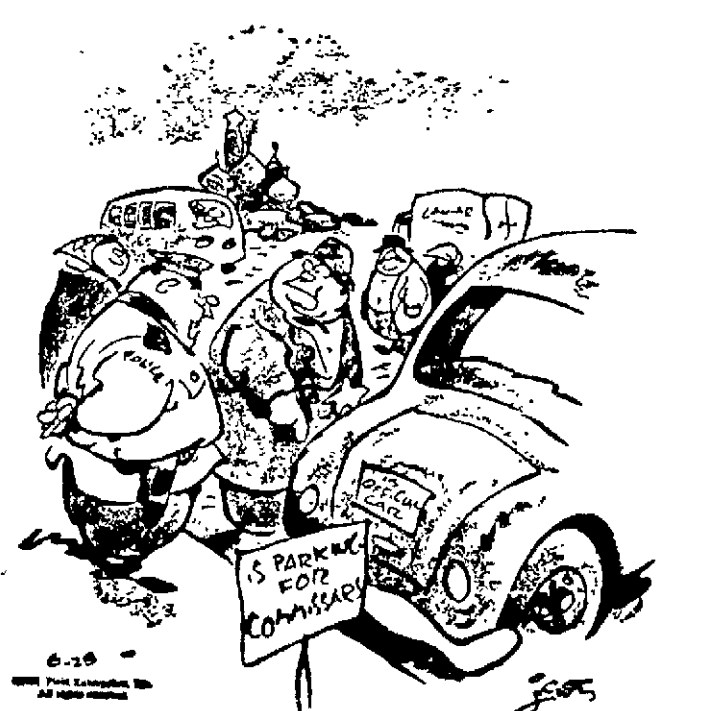

Similarly the "leaders" are not leaders in the strict sense. They are mere signal callers, like the quarterback who gets his instructions from the coaching bench. In other and perhaps better times, the "leader" was the man who could not only represent the wishes of the caucus on the major issues, but asserted his own force and will in the development of policy.

Germans Ignore Ban is equal and policy should be conducted on an equal basis between them.

"But," he added, "we consider that the forces of socialism and peace are the stronger. We base that not only on our economic and military might, but on the justice of our cause."

Arms Question

Khrushchev also repeated his demands for disarmament on Soviet terms and talked about the situation in Southeast Asia.

He called last week's Zurich agreement among the Laotian princes a "good beginning" and said he hopes it will lead the Laotians to a solution of their own problems.

He blamed the United States and its allies for the Laos crisis and said it would never have arisen if the United States had not interfered in the international affairs of Laos.

He said the Soviet government fully supports the government of North Viet Nam in its policy aimed at "the fastest solution of the unification of Viet Nam."

Right to Sign Treaty

He said the Soviet Union has every right to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany

AFL-CIO Leaders Urge Kennedy Standby Powers

UNITY HOUSE, Pa. (AP) — AFL-CIO leaders say the world situation is so serious Congress should arm President Kennedy with powers to mobilize the economy "to meet any eventuality."

The federation's executive council said in a statement that Moscow has spurned all friendly gestures by the United States and has accelerated a drive for world domination.

The government should act immediately, the union leaders said, to alert the American people to the gravity of the international crisis and "strengthen our country's capacity for national defense in all possible emergencies."

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said he personally wants the United States to go further and resume full nuclear testing. He said the present test ban is a gentlemen's agreement and that the United States has no way of knowing whether the Soviets are observing it.

because the United States had signed what he described as a separate peace treaty with Japan.

Khrushchev noted that uniting two countries with the same social system is not "a simple matter," and in the case of the two Germans, with their differing systems, it would be even more difficult.

"In any case," he added, "unification (of Germany) can come about only as a result of the negotiations."

He assailed West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer for rejecting East Germany's offer to negotiate on a national level. The premier recalled that Adenauer has said unification should be brought about by the powers that won World War II.

Senate Report Criticizes Navy On Texas Tower

said in commenting on the committee's unanimous report.

Despite numerous warnings from the creaking tower — known officially as No. 4 and unofficially as "Old Shaky" — Stennis said the Air Force had 14 of its men and an equal number of civilian repairmen on it when it finally buckled into the Atlantic.

"The Air Force was chargeable with the responsibility for the safety and well-being of the personnel on board the tower, both civilian and military, and must accept a substantial portion of the blame," Stennis continued.

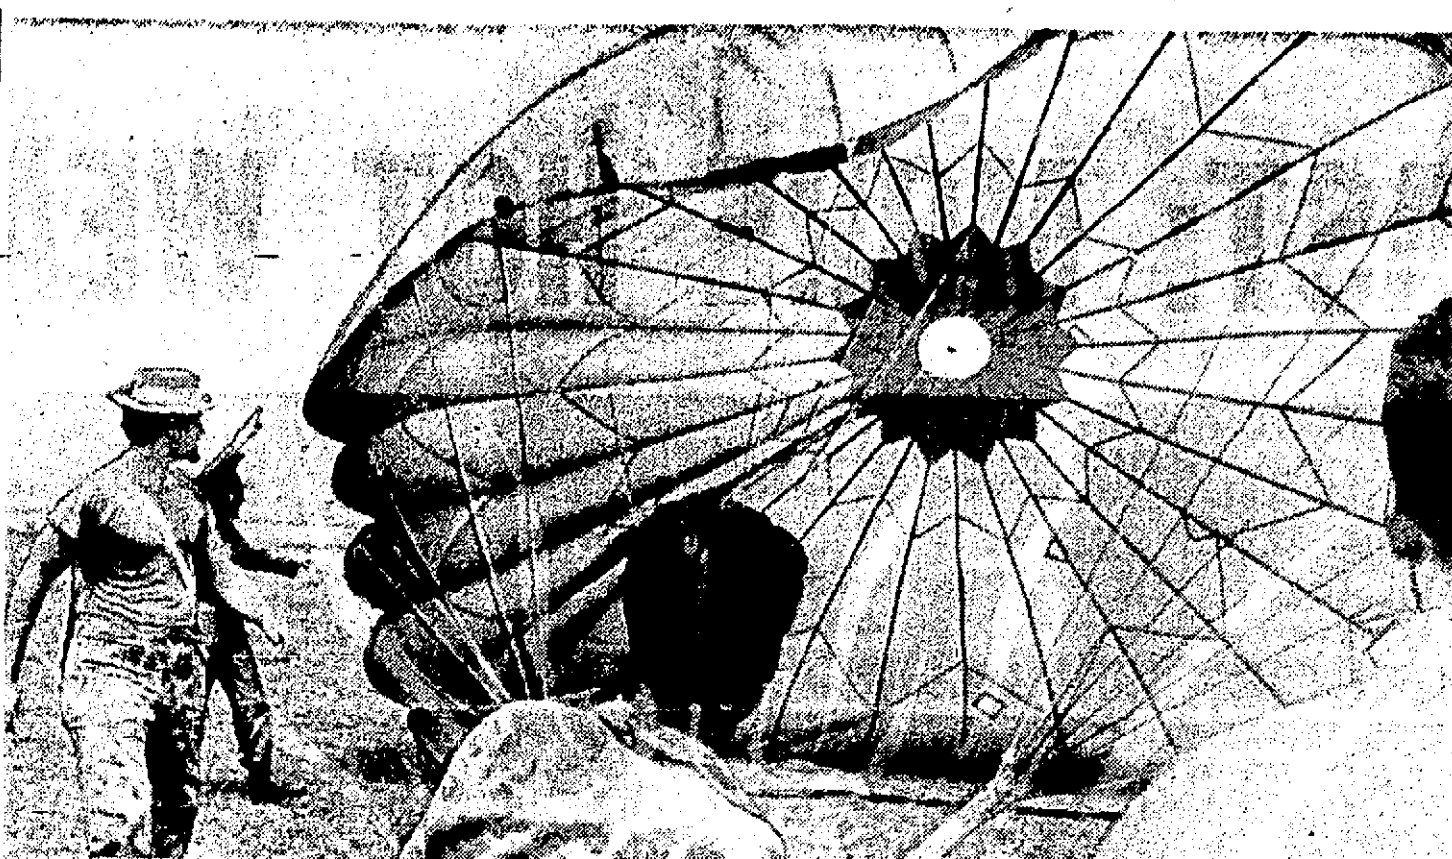

Doomed in 1957

The tower had twice been battered by hurricanes but both the 41-page report and Stennis said the huge tower was doomed as early as June 1957, when the massive steel structure was damaged while being towed to its Atlantic site.

The report said the Navy officer in charge of construction, the contractor and the design engineers all disclaimed responsibility for a decision against towing the multimillion-dollar structure back to port for repairs.

Stennis termed this "another example of the hodge-podge of indecision — or buck-passing, if you will."

But he said investigating senators unanimously agreed "that the Navy cannot escape or avoid responsibility for the decision to repair the structure at sea." He recalled this "the point of no return and the time at which the fate of the tower was sealed."

conference in Washington in nearly eight weeks, and he opened it by reading a statement reiterating his administration's strong position on the German city.

Kennedy also announced that he had instructed his Science Advisory Committee to organize a special study to determine whether the Russians have been or could be engaged in secret testing of nuclear weapons.

Kennedy said the Soviets' insistence on a veto over machinery to police a nuclear test ban is disheartening and "raises a serious question" about how long the United States can maintain its voluntary ban on such tests.

U. S. Leads in Production

Taking note of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent statement that Russia would be outproducing the United States by 1970, the President said that could never take place at any time in the 20th Century and added:

"We invite the USSR to engage in this competition which is peaceful and which could only result in a better living standard for both of our peoples."

In his statement on Berlin, Ken-neddy put quotation marks around the word "crisis" in reference to the city.

Saying Khrushchev had threatened to sign a peace treaty with the Communist regime in East Germany, he used quotation marks again around peace treaty.

Khrushchev has said this would end Allied rights in West Berlin.

No Sign of Strain

"It is clear that such unilateral action cannot affect these rights, which stem from the surrender of Nazi Germany," Kennedy declared.

Kennedy showed no signs of his back strain or recent virus infection. He replied to a question about his health by saying he was "feeling very well."

In response to a question, Kennedy said no plan for partial mobilization has been placed before him at the present, but that various groups are considering the problem created by Berlin, and "of course we will be considering a whole variety of measures."

Hoped for Exchange

On other matters Kennedy had this to say:

Tractors for Freedom — Of the apparently dead negotiation to exchange U. S. tractors for Cuban refugees captured in their abortive attempt to overthrow the Fidel Castro regime, Kennedy said a committee of prominent U. S. citizens "went to every conceivable length in order to demonstrate their good faith" in dealing with Castro.

"Mr. Castro would not accept it," he said — thus throwing blame for the apparent collapse of the transaction on the Cuban dictator.

Intelligence — Kennedy said of American-owned ships operating under foreign flags in order to benefit, as he put it, from low wages that can be paid to seamen. This is one of the issues that prompted the maritime strike — a dispute which caused Kennedy to invoke the Taft-Hartley act this week in an effort to get striking shipping unions back to work.

As for what action the government may take concerning U. S. merchant ships flying foreign flags, Kennedy said he would prefer to wait until the fact-finding committee he appointed under the Taft-Hartley act makes its report and other possible solutions can be explored.

But he said the unions involved also have an obligation in a highly competitive business lest more and more ships leave U. S. control for foreign supervision.

Textiles — Kennedy said the administration was not committed to a plan which U. S. textile in-plans at this point for a further meeting with Khrushchev.

Laos — Kennedy said the United States still hopes the Geneva conference on Laos can come up with effective cease-fire controls in that Southeast Asian country. He said U. S. representatives will remain at Geneva to determine if this can be achieved.

Maritime — Since the government subsidizes the American merchant marine, Kennedy said it is concerned with the problem of American-owned ships operating under foreign flags in order to benefit, as he put it, from low wages that can be paid to seamen. This is one of the issues that prompted the maritime strike — a dispute which caused Kennedy to invoke the Taft-Hartley act this week in an effort to get striking shipping unions back to work.

As for what action the government may take concerning U. S. merchant ships flying foreign flags, Kennedy said he would prefer to wait until the fact-finding committee he appointed under the Taft-Hartley act makes its report and other possible solutions can be explored.

But he said the unions involved also have an obligation in a highly competitive business lest more and more ships leave U. S. control for foreign supervision.

Textiles — Kennedy said the administration was not committed to a plan which U. S. textile interests contend would open the nation to an increase in low price textile imports.

Kennedy said the problem is "extremely complicated" and noted that the United States sells more cotton to Japan than it imports in textiles from all over the world.

Orderly Flow Needed

He said the administration seeks a method of providing for an orderly flow of textiles from newly developing countries and declared the United States would have to act in a manner to preserve its own export market.

"This is a balanced matter," he said, which affects both imports and exports.

Nixon — Asked about recent criticism of his administration by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Kennedy said in a clear reference to the next election that he would continue to do his best until 1964.

U. S. vs. Russia — Going further into his challenge to Russia on peaceful economic competition, Kennedy said economics is an uncertain science but this country must devise steps to provide not only a recovery now but one that can be sustained over the years. This also would entail reduced unemployment.

Latin American Issue

"That we have to do if we are going to defeat Mr. Khrushchev," Kennedy said, "but it is within our potential."

Latin America — Kennedy was asked to define the relationship of policy makers on the White House staff and those in the State Department in view of what a reporter said had been criticism of the administration's conduct of inter-American affairs.

There have been reports that Kennedy had difficulty finding an assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs because White House aides had undertaken an active role in drafting policy in that area.

From his experience in government, Kennedy replied, when there is no controversy there is little happening; if one really wants complete harmony, "the best way to do it is not to do anything."

"So we are attempting to do something about Latin America," he added, "and there is bound to be a ferment."

MacArthur Won't Address Congress In Philippines

MANTLA (AP) — A plan to have Gen. Douglas MacArthur address a joint session of the Philippine Congress during his visit here has been canceled.

proclaimed a state of emergency and put his small army on a state of alert. Informed sources said Sheikh Abdullah Mubarak, the deputy ruler and heir apparent, had cut short a visit to Lebanon and returned home.

British Stand By

Kuwait's 2,400-man garrison is bolstered by British troops whose withdrawal after Kuwait gained independence last week was canceled following Iraq's move. Four British frigates lie in the Persian Gulf.

The Cairo newspaper Al Gumburria reported that Kuwait authorities have arrested a number of Iraqi settlers in the sheikdom for subversive activities and had expelled several other Iraqis on similar charges. Cairo papers said violent demonstrations were continuing in Kuwait calling for Kassem's downfall.

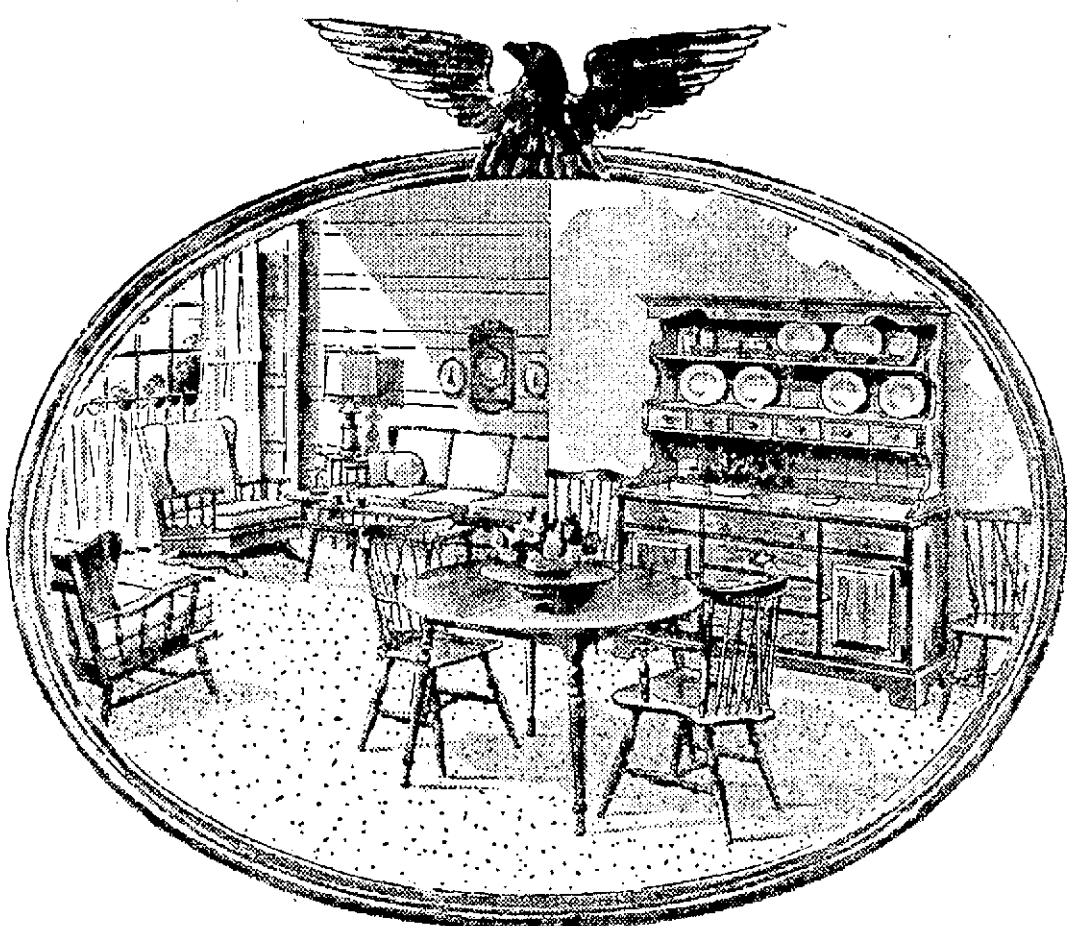

So far, however, the border between Kuwait and Iraq was reported quiet, and travelers said road and rail transport between the two neighbors continued to operate.

Britain announced it would honor its pledge of military support if requested by its former protectorate. A spokesman for the Foreign Office in London said "British views have been made very clear" to the Iraqi Foreign Ministry.

The U. S. State Department also announced U. S. recognition of Kuwait as a sovereign state. British and American oil interests operate the oil industry of Kuwait, which ranks fourth in world production after the United States, Venezuela and the Soviet Union. The sheikdom's oil royalties total $3 million a day and give its 200,000 people the highest standard of education and health in the Middle East.

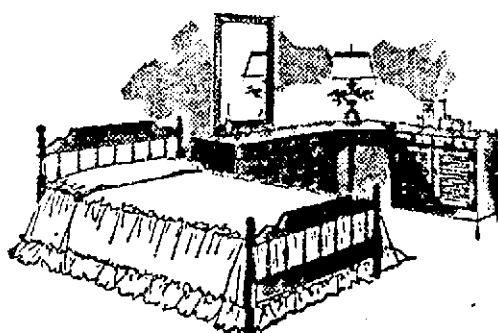

a message had been sent to MacArthur in New York advising him of the change in plans. The general will be a special guest at the celebration July 4 of the 15th anniversary of Philippine independence.

There was no official explanation for the cancellation of the a joint session of the Philippine Congress during his visit here, but questions have been raised because the privilege of addressing a joint congressional session is usually reserved for chiefs of state.

Two Books, Dictionary are Prize in National Contest

BY CAPPY DICK

Boys and girls! Just for becoming a national prize winner in today's easy contest, here's what you would receive:

A big, 946-page Advanced Junior Dictionary; a beautifully illustrated 528-page book entitled "Everyday Problems in Science" and another illustrated book, "In All Our States," which provides thousands of important facts about all the states in the Union.

Five sets of these books, all published by Scott-Foresman and Company, will be awarded as national prizes. One set will go to each boy or girl whose contest entry is judged to be one of the five best from all the cities where this column is published.

To qualify for consideration for one of these national awards, you must first become the winner of a local prize. There will be 5 local winners and each will receive as his prize an amazing "E-Z Money Vanisher" magic trick. The equipment will enable any boy or girl to fold into a piece of paper a borrowed coin and cause it to vanish, then reappear. The same equipment may be used to change a penny into a dollar bill and vice versa.

The entries which win these local prizes will automatically compete for the national awards.

The puzzle in the picture printed above is easy to solve. All you have to do is decide how to complete five famous companions and print the missing words in the blank spaces. For example, what word goes with "bacon" to

1. BACON+
2. PEACHES+
3. HORSE+
4. ICE CREAM+
5. BALL+

Indonesian Nurses to Receive Training Aboard S. S. Hope

Native Students Will Get Credit For Work Done on Hospital Ship

BY ROBERT A. PETERSON

When the S.S. Hope left Indonesia's capital city Djakarta, its first port of call after crossing the Pacific, it carried a larger complement than it had upon its arrival.

The entire first year class of the Bandung Nurses Training School was aboard and would receive academic credit for the next 6½ months as the ship proceeded through the islands of Eastern Indonesia. In charge of the Hope's nurse education program was a young lady from Connecticut, who worked out a curriculum for the Bandung nurses consisting of 312 hours of instruction in microbiology, pathology, anatomy and physiology review, surgical nursing, ward administration and English.

In addition to the Bandung nurses, the Hope carried 12 nurses from Djakarta and Semarang

They mix it with their hot peppers and say it's delicious."

The ship's sanitary engineer, at the request of local doctors, could be found almost every day peering down village well shafts, taking samples of water from hospital faucets, discussing drainage problems with building supervisors, or examining pipes leading to water supply points. At the end of his 3½ weeks on Bali, he produced reports totalling 20 pages on safe water supplies for the island generally and at the Denpasar General Hospital particularly.

Human Factor

When the Hope left Bali, an official spokesman from the local medical men said to the departing Americans after the music from the gamelan orchestra had died away:

"Your visit has given us the belief in the ability of mankind to make the human factor win over barriers laid by prejudices of race, politics and paper bureaucracy. We have had ample opportunity to see you at work and have been able to see that specific Western attitude of things-to-be-done, that striving for perfection in the performance of each piece of work. We refreshed our minds by experiencing anew those academic standards your doctors performed as a routine business. You have been able to appreciate us and our efforts amidst an enormous amount of handicaps and limitations. Working with you was like that happy feeling of being among friends whom we seemingly already had known for a long time."

But the official speeches of thanks as the Hope moves throughout the Indonesian archipelago are far outnumbered by

$600,000 Award To Polio Victim

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A jury awarded $600,000 to Bryan John May, 11, whose crippling polio attack six years ago was blamed on faulty anti-polio vaccine.

An additional $75,000 was awarded this week to his widowed mother, Mrs. Norma Marie May, 41, for her own suffering and medical expenses.

The suit against Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley, Calif., claimed by demonstration that the boy's Bryan was paralyzed with the disease in April 1955, shortly after vaccination with Salk-type serum, produced by the firm. Live polio virus was found in the serum, it was testified.

The verdict was the largest sum ever awarded in a U.S. personal injury suit, the boy's attorneys said.

Bryan was almost completely paralyzed when he was 5. He can now move two fingers of his right hand and the toes of his right foot.

Fred A. Cutler, senior vice president of the drug manufacturing firm, said in Berkeley:

"We are disappointed by the verdict as we believe it was clearly demonstrated that the boy's condition was not caused by the vaccine. Sympathy for this unfortunate youngster apparently outweighed scientific evidence."

Marching Into Georgia Takes Charlie to Resaca Battle Site

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

RESACA, Ga. — The blood from Wisconsin men has drenched almost every Civil War battlefield from Gettysburg to the Rio Grande, and there is many a one whose grave bears the cryptic, simple legend, "Unknown Union Soldier."

Many another lies somewhere in a shallow, scooped-out grave in the woods near this place with an epitaph no more eloquent than an unusually thick growth of vegetation.

Wisconsin sent some 91,000 men into the conflict — and 11,000 of these were killed in action or died of wounds somewhere. Hundreds of them simply disappeared into a hasty grave.

It happened at Resaca, a hamlet in 1864 as it is a hamlet now with a population under 200. It was then only a reluctant milepost on the way of Sherman's long series of battles from Chattanooga south to Atlanta.

The long road — 118 miles between the fallen Chattanooga and the great stronghold of Atlanta — was contested village by village, step by step by the wily Confederate General Joe Johnston. But Resaca commanded the railroad bridge over the Oostenaule River and was vital to Johnston's supply and communications to Atlanta.

Any Battlefield

Resaca could have been any battlefield along the way where Wisconsin men died, for they did — at Ringgold, Dalton, Dallas, Kennesaw Mountain, Kulp's farm, Chattahoochee River, Peach Tree Creek, Marietta, Jonesboro and Atlanta. These unlikely places were battle areas on Sherman's indomitable, stubborn campaign against Atlanta.

Sherman's forces, about double the size of the Confederate ates', included some 90,000 men and 254 big guns. His striking power consisted of three armies—The Army of the Cumberland, The Army of the Tennessee, and The Army of the Ohio. It was a splendid army, well equipped, abundantly supplied and brilliantly led. It was a veteran army and it knew how to fight and was willing to fight.

In its ranks was Wisconsin's 21st Infantry Regiment, among others. The men of the 21st had been recruited in Fond du Lac, Winnebago, Outagamie, Waupaca, Calumet, and Manitowoc counties.

On May 14, 1864, the First Brigade—with the 21st Wisconsin in the front line—was ordered to assault the enemy's works. A terrible and bloody battle ensued. The 21st held its position, though the assault was unsuccessful, until dark before it was ordered to retire.

Cannon and Musketry

"During the 15th," wrote Gen. Sherman, "the sound of canon and musketry rose all day to the dignity of a battle."

That night Johnston drew back across the river, burned the bridges, and Sherman entered Resaca at daylight.

The result of the "dignity of a battle" was 600 Union soldiers dead and 2,147 wounded, and a comparative, similar grim score for the Confederate forces.

Of the Wisconsin 21st, 18 were killed, 31 were wounded. Dead were Harlow Hilton, Francis McKennan, Andrew Clauson, Monroe Jackson, Thomas Mulaney, Lewis Sykes, Alfred Hobbs, Christopher Dougherty, Alonzo Smith, Thomas Ginty, Charles Rancey, William Stanfield, Lewis Bell, Thomas Alridge, Gustav Kuene, Thomas Pearson, John Smith and Holis Kellogg.

Some of these bodies were erated soldiers. A Confederate flag flies over some of these Wisconsin men.

Buried in Marietta

Still others were disinterred months later and reburied in a new national cemetery at Marietta, Ga.

There they are among a total of 10,151 soldiers who died in the Civil War, most of them during the Atlanta campaign. But 2,963 of the graves are marked "unknown."

A tall, red granite monolith stands there, however, dedicated to the 405 "known" men from Wisconsin who are interred there. On the monolith is the state seal of Wisconsin and a legend which reads: "Dedicated to the memory of Wisconsin soldiers who gave their lives in defense of the Union—1861-65."

Atop the granite marker is poised a figure of a badger—facing North.

Man Recognizes Woman as Wife, Charges Bigamy

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A frail 31-year-old mother of four children whose first marriage more than a decade ago ended in separation after three weeks was charged with bigamy Monday when her first husband recognized her on the street.

Mrs. Helen K. Grubb, who is

expecting a fifth child in October, waived preliminary hearing in District Court and was released without bond after her second husband, 45-year-old John Arcand, refused to post $500 bail. Arcand, father of her three smallest children, said that during six years of marriage Mrs. Grubb never mentioned her previous marriage. He said, "If she can clear herself with authorities, I will take her back." Mrs. Grubb said she was married to Richard Grubb, 35, in 1950, but after three weeks she left him because he had not obtained a job. She had become pregnant, and in 1951 gave birth to a son who now is in a home for children in Illinois. She married Arcand in 1954.

District Reorganization to Bring Changes for Children in Schools

Transportation, Curriculum Must Be Studied by Educators, Boards

BY BONNIE BARSTOW

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Regardless of what form of district organization is set up in the Neenah area next year, the school children are certain to see some changes in their classrooms.

Not all the changes will come the first year, because the school board will have many new problems, new situations, new constituents to deal with. But changes will come faster than they have in districts which have kept their same boundaries and form of organization for many years.

In either a unified or joint city district, the elementary schools of Neenah and its suburbs will tend to become more alike. Freshmen will enter Neenah High School with more similar educational backgrounds no matter where they live.

The policy committee of the area study committee, representing both city and outlying districts, has been investigating transportation, curriculum, faculty, rules, supervision and procedures which differ among the urban, suburban and rural districts. The committee is recommending policies it hopes will make the transition to either a joint city or unified district as smooth as possible.

Dr. Donald T. Scott, Neenah school superintendent, and Ralph Fowler of Spring Road district found that textbooks for several subjects were uniform throughout the area. In English and social studies, schools are dissatisfied with present texts, and study groups will be set up this fall to recommend changes. Scott and Fowler saw no problem in non-uniform books in science and special subjects.

Differences in policies on hiring of teachers are likely to cause more problems. Neenah hires no married women if men or single women are available. About half of the suburban teachers are married women. The area policy committee has recommended that all present teachers continue regardless of marital status as long as their performance is satisfactory. Whether this definitely becomes

Salary schedules, insurance programs, sick leave plans and other personal policies also will have to be made uniform if the area schools join with the city system. The offering of such subjects as science, music, industrial arts and home economics probably would be increased for the suburbs, especially the smaller districts, if they joined with Neenah. Kindergartens would be established for the four districts which don't have them now.

A single board and administration for kindergarten to 12th grade makes coordination of elementary and high school courses easier than in separate systems.

In a unified or joint city district, students may be transferred from city to suburban schools or vice versa or among suburban schools, just as they sometimes are moved within the city now. This enables the school administration to relieve crowding in one school by making full use of schools that have room to spare.

Because of the city's irregular boundaries, some children who live two blocks from Neenah-Taft School now go to Tul- lar, while other children cross U.S. 41 to get to city schools. In a unified or joint city district, these lines could be made more even and could be adjusted by the board from time to time in order to balance enrollments.

Seventh and eighth graders from the outlying area would go to city junior high schools. The new junior high has room for 250 but there will only be about 100 in 1962.

Transportation of children to elementary, junior high school and special classes becomes so complicated that use of an electronic brain to set up bus routes had been suggested. To get a head start on the solving of transportation problems, the area committee is using maps with pins for each child.

This will show how many youngsters have to be taken from where to where. In some places, duplication may be eliminated by carrying elementary and high school students on the same buses.

A Neenah - suburban district board also will have to decide how far to transport children. The four large suburban schools transport those living less than two miles from school but the city doesn't.

The reorganized district could set a uniform policy for all or could continue to transport just children in the outlying area short distances because of the lack of sidewalks and high-speed traffic.

Five of the six districts which may join Neenah serve warm lunches. Neenah offers lunches only at the high school. The area policy committee recommended that lunches be provided in the schools that now do so.

The suburban-rural people think of their schools as community centers and want to keep them that way. Spring Road School, for example, reported that 90 public gatherings were held in the school during the last year. When becoming part of a larger district, the people around an individual school lose exclusive control of school use and share control of their and other schools with the whole area.

The area committee said it "recognizes that the school should serve as a community center and therefore should be made available for community use under proper supervision."

Organization Error Costs State $2,619

MADISON (AP)—A Washburn County school district, which lost part of its territory to another district through an error in re-organization, Tuesday was awarded $2,619 in tax revenue by the State Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court reversed a decision by the Washburn County Circuit Court which would have allowed the joint school district of the city of Rice Lake to retain taxes on land it acquired from joint school district No. 1 of the towns of Madge and Long Lake in Washburn County. Madge and Long Lake would get the land back under order of the joint school committee of Barron, Rusk, Sawyer and Washburn counties. But Rice Lake contended that action to get the money back was, in effect, an attack on the legality of the Rice Lake district and therefore prohibited by state law.

The Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Justice Grover Broadfoot, said the Rice Lake district was "unjustly enriched" because of an error and the action brought by Madge and Long Lake was proper.

The Supreme Court denied that the action was an attack on the legality of formation of the Rice Lake district and directed the lower court to enter a judgment in favor of Madge and Long Lake for the amount of taxes and costs.

Round of Fish, Game License Fee Increases Facing Bleak Future

Joint Committee Backs Bow Boost; No Action on Other Requests

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—If the legislature's joint committee on finance has its finger on the pulse of the legislature, the state Conservation Department's anxious appeal for a round of increases in fishing and hunting license fees to help up its expenditures budget faces a bleak prospect.

The committee late Tuesday approved only one minor part of a new revenue package of the department that it hopefully estimated would increase its budget to the tune of about a million dollars a year. The committee approved without objection the regular Conservation Department operating fund that will amount to $26,500,000 for the biennium and is likely to be approved quickly by the legislature to take effect on July 1.

Bow Hunt License
Only new revenue measure that got the clear blessing of the financial review committee of the legislature was one to impose a special bow and arrow hunting license requirement of five dollars upon archers.

The committee recommended rejection of department-authored measures to enact a special one-dollar trout stamp requirement and a one dollar stamp for pheasant hunting, and failed to take a position on the major proposal to add one dollar to each of the license fees for resident fishing, small game hunting, and big game hunting. The present fees are two dollars, three dollars, and four dollars, respectively.

Members indicated by sparse comments during a hurried hearing that they are uncertain of sportsmen's sections in their own districts, although Conservation Department Director Lester Voight said "there is support when it is explained to them."

Fair Chance
(Later Assemblyman Paul Al Eagle River, chairman of the assembly Conservation Committee, said there is a fair chance that the legislature will approve the fishing and hunting license fee boosts. To give the department some spending power beyond its present budget.)

Voigt said the conservation commission has been forced to trim back scheduled spending by $4,000,000 during the last two years, because of revenue reverses. Other states, including those competing with Wisconsin for tourist trade, are also being forced to boost their license schedules, he argued.

The department operates on a segregated fund basis, which means that it is able to spend only the revenues that it collects under statutory fee levels. About 41 per cent of its new budget will involve forestry programs, about 39 per cent fish and game services, and the remainder general programs including parks.

Pistol-Packing Days End for 103-Year-Old Woman in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — A 103-year-old Atlanta woman has lost her pistol. Police—and the neighbors—decided she didn't need it.

It seems the neighbors complained that Mrs. Willie Slaton had several times pointed the .32-caliber pistol at them and at children who passed near her home. They also said she had thrown rocks at the children.

Police talked with Mrs. Slaton and decided she had no need for the gun. It was turned over to the station captain and marked: "Hold for owner."

Flip-Flop Again On Patrol Power

Bill to Extend Arrest Functions Sent to Possible Committee Death

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — In an extraordinary example of political maneuver, the last-ditch foes of a bill to extend mildly the arrest powers of the state traffic patrol Tuesday managed to return it to committee, where it may languish and die as the 1961 legislative moves toward final adjournment.

On no other measure during the six months of the current session has the Wisconsin assembly flip-flopped to the degree that has been shown on the bill to permit state traffic patrolmen, in the course of their regular highway tours, to arrest for felonies and misdemeanors observed on the highways and to turn such offenders over to the local sheriffs and police.

Sheriffs Dread It
The organized traffic officers and county sheriffs dread the measure as a possible threat to their own functions and powers, and have fought it relentlessly, skillfully, and probably with success.

On no other bill this session have individual members contradicted themselves so often, voting in favor of the bill at one stage, and against it on another. No other measure has had so many parliamentary steps. The legislative bulletins now show more than 60 separate entries.

Two weeks ago the assembly had given a 14 vote favorable margin to the measure after it was approved by the state senate by a substantial majority, and after the lower house had killed a companion bill two months earlier. The big approving vote was generally interpreted as assembly reaction to widespread backing of the bill by safety organizations and the Wisconsin public press.

Change Position
But yesterday one of its chief backers astonished the chamber when he acted against his own previous position in approving reconsideration of the approving vote, and then made the motion to recommit the bill to committee.

He is Assemblyman Robert Huber of Milwaukee, assembly Democratic caucus floorleader, who was chairman of the legislative interim committee which drafted the bill after extensive hearings and studies a year ago, and was one of its foremost defenders during the ardent struggles on the floor during the last five months.

Huber said he wanted to check to see whether there was a way to assure more cooperation between the bitterly antagonistic county and state traffic enforcement forces.

Delay May Be Fatal
Backers of the patrol powers bill angrily accused him of attempting to defeat the measure by indirection, but Huber carried his motion by a vote of 52 to 42.

Under the assembly rules, a bill cannot be withdrawn by the house from a committee, if the committee wishes to hold it, for two weeks without a two-thirds vote. After that time a majority vote is sufficient. But with final adjournment of the legislature nearing, a two week delay may be fatal.

Huber assured his opponents that he has no desire to delay the bill and that he would try to report it back to the house quickly.

But when Assemblyman Hugh Harper of Grant County, chairman of the highways committee, was asked directly what his plans were, he failed to pledge quick return of the measure that he has consistently opposed. He said he between the bitterly antagonistic county and state traffic enforcement powers might become a strike-breaking weapon.

The original assembly patrol bill was forcibly withdrawn from the Harper committee, an action which is usually interpreted as showing a lack of confidence in the committee's intentions.

There was no evident explanation for the change of heart of Huber and some other legislators on the patrol powers issue, although the legislative corridors echoed with reports that some labor unions, echoing ancient fears, have decided to fight the measure because a state police establishment with general enforcement powers might become a strike-breaking weapon.

Names Clifford Head Of Oct. 24 UN Day
NEENAH — Mayor Chester S. Bell has appointed William H. Clifford, 427 Ninth St., as Neenah United Nations Day chairman.

Clifford, a retired Kimberly-Clark Corp. vice president and director, also is chairman of the Neenah-Menasha, Sewerage Commission.

Group Visits Institute as Part of Study

College Teachers At Four-Week Summer Seminar

Twenty college teachers of economics and business are making a study of the pulp and paper industry in a four weeks summer seminar called "Economics in Action," under the auspices of the University of Wisconsin.

They spent Tuesday at the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton, where Dr. Roy Whitney, dean and vice president of the Institute, discussed the Institute of Paper Chemistry and its relation to the pulp and paper industry; Dr. Willis Van Horn, chief of the biology group, discussed water conservation, and A. Neil McLeod, economist, discussed the economics of the pulp and paper industry.

Visit Other Firms

Other firms visited in the Fox Cities area included the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co., Kaukauna; Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah; Appleton Coated Paper Co. and the Sulphite Pulp Manufacturer's Research League, Appleton.

The twenty participants in this year's "Economics in Action" group are from twelve states and come from colleges at such separate places as Decatur, Mississippi, and Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Professor Edward Fei, professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin at Madison and the group's leader this year, said each participant was on a full scholarship for the four week program. He said while "Economics in Action" started as a summer program for college teachers of the midwest primarily, it has in the last years become national in nature.

The summer seminar this year is supported by 32 companies and foundations, most of them in Wisconsin.

According to Fei, a different industry is studied each year. This year the pulp and paper industry is being studied.

Kaukauna City Council Plans Shift in Wards

KAUKAUNA — The legislative committee of the Common Council has begun work on redistricting plans for the city which will meet third class city requirements for having 1,000 residents in each ward.

The Fifth ward is short on residents and the committee hopes to be able to alter boundary lines between the Fifth and Fourth wards to bring the Fifth into line. Some changes may also be made in the Third Ward lines, the largest in the city.

The committee is also studying recodification of the ordinances and has asked the finance committee to include financing of recodification in the 1962 budget.

Menasha High Seeks Bids on Bath Towels

MENASHA — Bids for supplying, laundering and delivering bath towels for the Menasha High School physical education program will be received until 7 p.m. July 10. The school system now owns the towels used.

Supt. of Schools M. J. Gegan said the school system may rent towels if bids are favorable.

Publishing Executives Tour Mead Co. Research Center

Maurice E. Cartier, vice president of the Post-Publishing Co., was one of 12 publishing executives to tour the new Mead Research Center at Chillicothe, Ohio, June 19 and 20. Accompanying Cartier was John Schmeier, secretary of the Gilbert Paper Co., Menasha. Gilbert is a subsidiary of Mead.

The executives toured the new $4,500,000 installation devoted entirely to research into paper and paper products. Included in the center are a test pilot plant, miniature paper making machinery, electronic computers and other scientific equipment.

A work force of 300 is employed, with half of the employees holding college degrees. Graduates of 44 colleges and universities are listed, including several from Appleton's Institute of Paper Chemistry.

Studies being carried on at the center include new uses for paper, new types of paper, methods of controlling water and air pollution and creation of sales markets for newly developed products. Mead is one of the 10 largest paper manufacturers in the country, with 39 operations in 16 states. Approximately 15,000 people are employed.

Maintenance Man to be Hired By School Board

Hiring of an additional school maintenance man to specialize in mechanical work was approved by Appleton Board of Education last night.

The man is to begin work in January. Franklin L. Nehs voted no on the question, saying that next year's budget shouldn't be committed before the board sees it all. The administration said time is needed to find the right person for the job. The larger Edison school, attachment of Red Star School and the Foster addition will increase maintenance work in the year ahead, it was pointed out.

The board also approved paying $200 to each member of the elementary coordinating committee in the next school year. Members of the interim committee which it replaces were paid $5 an hour for night and Saturday meetings. Two members received $202.50 each and the third got $200 during the last year.

All School Costs Will Be Charged to District

Some Expenses Haven't Been Shared By Areas Outside Corporate Limits

Appleton is taking steps to make areas outside the city limits using city schools pay their share of all school costs. Some of these costs have been contained in other department budgets and taxed only to city residents.

Certain public improvements the city has provided for the schools aren't included in the school operating budgets, bond issues and site costs, which are divided between Appleton and Grand Chute on the basis of the equalized property valuation each has in the school district. Town of Harrison will share the cost after Red Star District joins the city for school purposes. The same figures are used in computing per pupil cost to set tuition for students out of the district.

City Atty. Don L. Jury told the board of public works yesterday that the board of public works may assess various branches of government for public improvements on public property. The board is recommending that the council adopt this policy as of Jan. 1, 1962. A similar policy will apply to water main assessments.

This means that the cost of sidewalks, street improvements, sewers and water mains around new schools will go into the school budget rather than public works or water department budgets. It thus will be shared by the town areas whose children use the schools.

The school board has been granted permission to continue to use Whispering Pines School, a frame building on E. Wisconsin Avenue, for storage until next summer, although it may be sold to private interests before that time. The school board is to pay insurance and taxes on the building, but not the land, while it uses the school. This, too, will be paid for by the district as a whole and added to tuition rates.

The board clarified its policy on solicitations of school employees to attend conventions.

Registration hours will be 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. in the Memorial Building. Trips will be July 12 to Madison, to see the Capitol, State Historical Society Museum and Trux Field; July 19, to Baraboo to see the Circus World Museum, little circus, and Devil's Lake; and July 27 to Milwaukee, to see the Braves and zoo.

for sales, merchandise, membership or donation to prohibit it only on school time or premises. Supt. Royce E. Kurtz asked the board whether the ban on outside organizations using school time, facilities or personnel to collect donations meant that children couldn't decide by themselves to give donations meant that children couldn't decide by themselves to give donations to charity. Board members said donations should be allowed only if they are a part of the educational process.

Also added to the handbook will be the board's policy that membership in a private organization not be considered a condition of employment, but that professional staff members be encouraged to attend conventions.

Western Melodrama Purely Entertainment

Heroines Swoon, Villains Skulk in Holiday Players' 'Deadwood Dick'

BY HAROLD KURTZ
 Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MANAWA — This may not be the height of the corn season in Wisconsin, but the corn was tall and thick Tuesday night when the Holiday Players opened for a two-week run of "Deadwood Dick," or "The Game of Gold."

Actually, it isn't quite correct to call it corn. Rather, it's melodrama—pure, 19th century melodrama complete with swooning heroines, stalwart heroes and skulking villains.

An it was enjoyable. True, "Deadwood" will never be classified as culture. But it isn't meant to be. It's meant to be an entertaining evening. Not only is it meant to be—it is.

This marks the second play for the newly organized Holiday Players, which, under the direction of Richard Goldsmith, is making its headquarters in the Manawa Theater. "Deadwood Dick," scheduled to coincide with the Manawa rodeo, July 1, 2 and 4, plays until July 9 with double performances scheduled for the nights of the rodeo.

Cliches Abound

Cliches abound in the production as a parade of characters march through the practically non-existent plot. Gun play, fist fights and all the other necessary appendages of a roaring western are present in every act. The play is set vaguely in the Wild West—the 1870s or 1880s. The scene is Calamity Jane's (played by Phyllis Mintz) Man Trap Saloon.

In a melodrama such as this one doesn't single out the stars—mainly because no one falls into this classification. Lully Blossom, played by Jan Oliver, sang, willed and fainted her way in an eye-catching, smile provoking manner.

Two Heroes

There were the heroes—Ned Harris, alias Deadwood Dick, portrayed by Grant Kildorn, and Wild Bill Hickok, played by James Tiplady, who did a lot to brighten up the production. The main villain, Blackman Redburn, played by Pete Hoffman, drew admiring hisses from the audience as he attempted to shoot the heroes, steal the heroines and generally disrupt the course of true love, righteousness, law and order.

Two Waupaca residents made their debut with the Holiday Players in this piece. Larry Han-

Swimming Program To Include Diving; Over 1000 Register

MENASHA — Over 1,000 youngsters have registered for the Menasha learn-to-swim program according to Menasha Recreation Department officials.

Diving will be added to the program in the future, in addition to the regular swimming program.

Registration for the city swimming meet will be at 5:30 p.m. today. No limit is set on the number of events that a contestant can enter. Individuals entering diving events will do three dives of his own choice.

Tentative plans are being made for a home swim meet with De Pere. The first meet will probably be held in Menasha in July.

Drive Begun For Seat Belts In Every Auto

NEW YORK — (AP) — A campaign to put seat belts in every car has been launched by safety and medical leaders.

They estimated 5,000 lives could be saved and 400,000 serious injuries avoided each year, if everyone were using seat belts.

The program, announced near the approach of the Fourth of July weekend and its highway hazards, is sponsored by the National Safety Council, American Medical Association, U. S. Public Health Service and cooperating organizations.

The advertising council will conduct a broad advertising program for the safety council.

G. C. Stewart, council executive vice president, said "seat belts save lives" is no longer a handy slogan, but a proven fact.

"Day after day we receive reports of accidents in which drivers and passengers have been saved from death and injury because of this one safety device," he added.

Accidents last year killed 24,000 persons and injured 1,250,000 who were passengers in automobiles.

Dr. E. Vincent Askey, the medical association president, said the decision of automobile manufacturers to install safety belt anchorages for the front seats of all 1962 passenger cars was "another major step toward eliminating the unnecessary bloodshed and carnage on our highways."

Perhaps only 2 per cent of the nation's automobiles are equipped now with belts, said Robert A. Wolf, director of the Automotive Crash Injury Research of Cornell University.

40 Register for Archery Classes

NEENAH — Forty persons have enrolled in the archery class sponsored by the Neenah Recreation Department.

The three classes are held Wednesday from 1 to 2:15 p.m. for 3-year olds and younger; 2:15 to 3:30, 10- and 11-year olds; and 3:30 to 5, 12 and older. The three classes are not completely filled yet.

All of the classes will be held in the rear of the high school. Bows and arrows are furnished, but participants also may use their own.

Ken Wolff, active in the Winnebago Archery Club is in charge. Wolff also taught the course in 1959.

The First Important Futurist painting was Boccioni's "The City Rises," on display with 129 other paintings of its era at various American museums until Feb. 19. Painters of this period — from 1910 to 1915 — tried to capture the essence of speed and motion on canvas.

Art Phase of 1900s on Tour of U. S. Galleries

Offshoot of Cubism Flowered in Italy, Now Faded Into History

BY MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Half a century has put into odd perspective one of the offshoots of Cubism in art. It was called Futurism, it flowered in Italy between 1910 and 1915, and now its importance has withered to a faded chapter in history.

Americans who want to look back over this movement have an opportunity to see 130 paintings, drawings, sculptures, water-colors and collages assembled by the Museum of Modern Art.

About half these works are from Italian collections and never have been seen outside Italy.

In New York

The exhibit will be in New York until Sept. 12, at the Detroit Institute of Arts from Oct. 16 through Dec. 19 and at the Los Angeles County Museum from Jan. 14 through Feb. 19.

It has been 50 years since the first important Futurist show was held in Milan. A manifesto on the aims of the movement, written by the poet-dramatist Marinetti, was published in 1909.

Hindsight shows it was a curious forecast of Fascism. For Marinetti's text called for the burning of libraries and the flooding of museums, extolled "aggressive movement . . . the double-quick step . . . fisticuffs," and glorified war.

(At the time, Mussolini was 26 years old, and still to be heard from.)

Manifesto Signed

The five artists who signed a similar manifesto in 1910 were Umberto Boccioni, Giacomo Balla, Carlo D. Carra, Luigi Russolo and Gino Severini. All five are well represented in this show, with their followers.

Boccioni was at the heart of the movement, and his "The City Rises" was the first important Futurist painting. In it you'll see one of the basic ideas of the whole school—"lines of force."

These painters revelled in speed and tried to capture it on canvas. Instead of breaking objects into structural form, as the Cubists did, they conceived moving objects as creating formless, and painted these lines so they converge on the spectator.

Swirling Lines

In "The City Rises" Boccioni has depicted wildly charging horses and men, exaggerating their movements with swirling lines.

The Futurists used their ideas in many pictures of dynamic, moving objects. Balla painted "Abstract Speed — Wake of Speeding Automobile," and several other examples in this show are concerned with the forceful presentation of trains, bicycles, birds and even soccer players.

The school's concern with motion led them to experiment with repetitive lines and images, resembling a series of exposures on a single film.

Good Example

If you've ever seen Duchamp's celebrated "Nude Descending a Staircase" you'll recall the slashing lines that represent the woman's progress down the stairs. Duchamp was not a Futurist, but his painting is a good example of one of their ideas.

And what became of these artistically radical Italians? Boccioni and most of his friends turned to more conventional means of expression about 1915, and the movement fell apart.

TV Panelists Need Logic, Imagination

Producer Says Stars Often Make Poor Participants

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Radio-TV Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Big theatrical names playing TV games may help attract audiences, but, in the opinion of Mark Goodson who ought to know, most actors and actresses make poor game players.

"I think it is because they are trained to use other people's lines and I also think that actors by nature are illogical and become disconcerted when called upon for free-wheeling imagination," explained the producer.

Goodson is a top specialist in the field. His program producing firm, Goodson-Todman, is now celebrating its 15th year in network TV and has developed such such long running programs as "What's My Line," "To Tell the Truth," "I've Got a Secret," "Play Your Hunch," "Beat the Clock," "Number Please" and many others.

But even an expert can be mistaken in his judgment. Goodson had the idea of "To Tell the Truth" back in 1954 but did nothing about it. He believed it would be impossible to brief two people well enough in a short time to have them fool a panel of shrewd questioners hunting for the one truth-teller in a trio.

One of Goodson's assistants thought it would work. He chose a girl who was a painter and singer. Then he found two others, briefed them on singing and art, for two hours. Goodson and his associates quizzed the three for 25 minutes — and unanimously picked the wrong person. Then they repeated with a fireman who had won a photographic contest — and goofed again.

When Dina Merrill was asked recently to sit in for Polly Bergen on "To Tell the Truth," she auditioned by questioning three strangers sitting in an office to pick the "real" Mark Goodson.

Goodson says a good panelist on "What's My Line" might be poor on "To Tell the Truth," and vice versa: "Line" calls for deductive logic. "Truth" requires inductive mental processes.

One of the big changes in TV since Goodson-Todman first struck it rich in 1946 with "Winner Take All," is that nowadays, no one gives a show, off to a wobbly start, a chance to work out the bugs.

"I think that if 'What's My Line' were to start out new in 1962, with an unknown panel, it wouldn't have a chance for survival," said Goodson. "That's one of the reasons we like to start a game show in the daytime. It is sort of a tryout spot—the New Haven of television. Nighttime TV is Broadway."

Producers Can't Get, Keep Opera, Classics Shows on Television

Amid the charges and counter charges at the TV hearings, in New York and Washington have some small nuggets of program intelligence:

Producer Robert Saudek revealed his "Omnibus" probably won't be around at all next season; Producer David Susskind reported his "Family Classics" series cannot find a network berth in spite of a sponsor willing to foot the bill. And Ed Sullivan said that his projected series of six programs on the Metropolitan Opera a few seasons back were abandoned after three shows when the audience ratings revealed a marked drop-off of viewers.

East Coast Detective Wants to go Western

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Taylor doesn't mind being a detective, but he has a real hanker 'in' to be a cowboy.

The star of a current TV detective series says:

"When I was a kid, I liked to play cowboys and Indians. I still do."

"If I had my ways," says the 48-year-old actor, "I'd like to put out a Western series—I like them best of all."

Don Ameche Finds Movies Unchanged

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Don Ameche, who returned to Hollywood recently to make a movie after a 12-year absence, says the situation hasn't changed much.

"Most of the same people seem to be running the industry," he says, "and the same nervous urgency to get as many scenes as possible done in a day pervades everybody's thinking."

Claude Jasper Re-Elected Head of GOP

Appleton Woman New Vice Chairman Of State Party

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The Republican state committee today re-elected Claude J. Jasper, Madison, chairman of the state-wide voluntary Republican organization and named Mrs. Talbot Peterson, Appleton, vice chairman.

The committee also re-elected Mrs. Dorothy Krohn, Oshkosh, a vice chairman. Ray Jondahl, Racine, was named vice president. The committee chose John Hough, Janesville, treasurer, succeeding Jondahl.

Jasper unexpectedly assumed the chairmanship of the Republican organization three years ago when Philip Kuehn, of Milwaukee, abruptly resigned, and was elected to a full term two years ago.

A Madison lawyer for many years, he is 55 years old and a specialist in transportation regulation. As a young man he was an examiner on the staff of the Wisconsin public service commission and most of his practice today is before that agency and the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington.

A product of the conservative wing of the party, he was one of the principal Wisconsin boosters of the late Sen. Robert Taft for the 1952 presidential nomination of the Republican party, and shortly after that campaign became treasurer of the state party organization.

A hard-driving, determined partisan, Jasper has been determined to maintain the Republican state headquarters staff on a year-around basis since the reverses of the party in the 1958 elections, but has found the task difficult financially. He has been resourceful in the sponsorship of money-raising events, however, and has been insistent upon continued encouragement of detailed county and precinct party organization.

Like the Democratic party organization, the Republican state committee does not pay a salary to its officers.

Members of the state committee are the district chairmen of the voluntary party organization, chosen at spring party caucuses, and representatives of county chairmen, women's groups, and the Young Republican Federation.

Unlicensed Driver Pays Fine of $105

OSHKOSH—Donald D. Hartfield, 24, 419 First St., Menasha, was fined $105 today and his driver's license revoked for one additional year by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane after he pleaded guilty of driving after revocation of his license.

Hartfield was arrested June 6 by state police in the town of Neenah.

John Wollitz, 18, route 2, Fond du Lac, was fined $123.65 on three traffic charges by Judge Cane. He admitted driving after revocation, drinking beer in a moving vehicle and throwing empty beer cans on the highway. He was arrested June 22 by Winnebago County police on State 150 in the Town of Neenah.

8 Counterfeit Bills Passed at Wausau

WAUSAU (AP)—Eight counterfeit $20 bills, all bearing the same serial number and apparently printed by a photographic process, were passed Tuesday in downtown Wausau stores.

The phony bills were detected by a bank teller, who became suspicious because of the feel of the paper.

The bills all had the serial number 1 19543034. Treasury agents in Minneapolis were notified. Authorities said that at least hunt began in Racine Street Park, included a stop for refreshments and searches for clues and ended at Jefferson Park with a watermelon feed.

Contract Will Not be Given To Bond Firm

Public Works Board Reverses Decision On Gresl Project

Appleton Board of Public Works voted yesterday afternoon to turn a contract for an unfinished sewer installation job over to the contractor's bonding company, but rescinded the action this morning. A 350-foot section of 60-inch storm sewer on the south side of E. John St. east from the canal was part of a contract awarded last year to Paul C. Gresl. The section had not been started about six weeks ago when P & B Excavating, Inc., was given permission to do the work for Gresl. The subcontractor said the job would be done in about a week. P & B got plans for the sewer last week, moved equipment to the site Monday and began work yesterday morning.

This morning, after hearing of the board's decision to have the bonding company take responsibility for completion of the job, Gresl visited Mayor Clarence A. Mitchell and City Atty. Don L. Jury.

The mayor called the special board meeting. He explained later that the board hadn't known the contractor was working yesterday. When it learned that work had begun, the board changed its mind, he said.

Director of Public Works Edwin J. Duszynski said he had told the board yesterday that work had begun that morning.

Bell Warns of New High-Pressure Salesmen's Tactics

NEENAH — Mayor Chesler Bell again warned homeowners today to beware of high-pressure telephone selling.

A woman living on Oak Street told him a home repair salesman asked age and information on her home and said the information was being secured for the county.

The woman hung up and the salesman called back to insist on getting the information and threatened to send the sheriff to ask the questions.

one similar counterfeit bill has been passed in Eau Claire and Stevens Point.

Kaukauna Delays Bids On Sewer Project

Board of Public Works Won't Decide Until City Engineer Checks, Tabulates Costs

KAUKAUNA—Bids were opened on a proposed sewer project for the DSK Hyland Heights subdivision by the board of public works, but no action taken pending tabulation and checking of bids by the city engineer.

Five bids were received ranging from a low of $57,240 50 to a high of $96,024. The low bid was $18,000 below the second low. Earlier the board had estimated the cost of the project at $30,000.

Included are 1,885 feet of 48-inch storm sewer, 280 feet of 15-inch sanitary sewer, 1,270 feet of 12-inch sanitary sewer, 460 feet of eight-inch sanitary sewer in addition to sewer leads, storm manholes, sanitary sewer man-holes and catch basins.

Property owners who requested the curb will be given the improvement at the price quoted.

Ray McCarty and Sons Construction agreed to do the work at old price if the city would do leave to 60 days based on five preliminary grading.

The engineer was instructed to check a water drainage problem on George Street and the utility commission was given power to act on a request for a street light on 17th Street between Oakridge and Crooks avenues.

General discussion on rules and regulations concerning annexation quired before annexation concluded the discussions.

Man Who Aided Jail Break Goes to Waupun

The man who helped in the break from the Outagamie County Jail May 4 was sent to state prison for a year in Municipal Court Tuesday.

James Hughes, 23, Chilton, admitted smuggling three hacksaw blades into the jail on the day of the escape. Three other prisoners, Gordon Rusch, 34, Black Creek; Gerald Kersten, 31, 1415 N. Bennett St and Frederick Malchow, 34, Chicago, used the blades to saw through bars in a fourth floor window. Then they escaped using a rope of blankets.

Hughes was serving a six-month term under the Huber Law on a worthless check count at the time of the break.

All three escapees were apprehended. Two have been sentenced and Malchow will be brought back from Buffalo, N. Y., where he was captured, today.

Plan Tennis Tourney At Combined Locks

COMBINED LOCKS — Tennis teams are being organized by the Combined Locks recreation department for a tennis tournament. Practice sessions will be held at 9 a.m. Monday and Thursday mornings on the Lindbergh Park courts. Julie Bolwerk, former player on the Kimberly High School tennis team, will be in-structor.

Practice sessions for a box hockey tournament also will be held the same mornings.

Rural School Districts Report on Reorganization

Present No Conclusions, Leave Decision to Annual Meetings

NEENAH — An independent integrated school district formed by seven elementary districts in the area would charge a tax rate of about $13.71 per $1,000 full property value in 1963, the Rural Districts Citizens Committee reported at Clayton School Tuesday night.

This probably would mean a tax increase for Spring Road and Mears Districts and decreases for Clayton, Tullar, Lakeview, Gillingham and Badger Districts. Spring Road and Mears would experience tax increases if all except Badger joined Neenah for school purposes, the State Department of Public Instruction has said.

The committee disbanded with a list of questions as its conclusions. It asked citizens to express their wishes at annual meetings July 24.

Always a Question
"Annexation will always be a question," the report stated. The possibility of large areas of the rural district or the industry which contributes heavily to its support being annexed to Neenah or Appleton create questions to the advisability of creating a new high school district, the committee said.

The committee suggested that, before comparing estimated costs of an independent district with those of joining Neenah, residents should learn about future needs of the Neenah schools.

A high school with 430 students and 26 teachers would cost $280,000 for teaching, $12,605 for transportation and $90,000 for debt reduction in 1963, the committee estimated. The state would pay $22,790 in aid, leaving a high school cost of $360,459 to the district.

Budget Figures
The seven elementary schools, with 54 teachers, and 1,326 students, would have a 1963 budget of $506,398, the committee predicted. The total budget would be $66,857 to be paid by a district with an estimated valuation of $63,232,496 by that time.

The 1963 equalized tax rate would be $7.55 per $1,000 less than the present rate in Tullar, $4.41 less in Badger, $2.86 less in Gillingham, $1.27 less in Clayton, 91 cents less in Lakeview, $3.55 more

Man to be Questioned In Molesting Charge

MENASHA — Police scheduled a lie detector test at Green Bay for 1:30 p.m. today to question a 57-year-old Menasha man suspected of attempting to molest a 7-year-old Menasha girl.

The incident is reported to have taken place on Kaukauna Street. Police scheduled the lie detector test because of contradiction in the girl's and man's stories.

in Mears and $5.55 more in Spring Road.

The state used 1960-61 as the basis for its estimates of the cost of a city-rural consolidation. It said such a reorganization would cause tax reductions of $9.34 in Tullar, $4.75 in Gillingham, $3.16 in Clayton, $2.80 in Lakeview, and increases of $1.66 in Mears and $3.66 in Spring Road.

On High Side
"We feel our costs are along the high side rather than the low," the rural committee said. "We have, from the beginning been talking about a better than average school district."

The group also acknowledged that Neenah and Appleton have excellent high schools.

"These facilities are available, and, with planned expansion, will present your youngsters with an excellent education. There are many advantages to be gained from a large high school—special advantages that could not be provided in a small school."

Appleton Supt. Royce E. Kurtz and Appleton High School Principal Herbert H. Heible recommended to the committee that if a new school is built, it begin with only ninth and 10th grades and add higher grades a year at a time.

The committee report was signed by Henry Bickerstaff, Frank Hamilton, George Skowronski, John Murphy, and Allene Heinz.

Appleton Schools OK Report Card System to ABC or numerical grades, Retson said.

Teachers were surveyed after each conference and report. In October, 108 teachers said they preferred group to individual conferences in the fall. Twenty preferred individual meetings. A majority of the teachers also felt parents gained as much or more from group conferences, a "catch-all" day for makeup and individual conferences after the group ones was valuable, the emphasis or purpose of the group conference needs modification, and the group conferences should be at least an hour long.

Become Repetitious
Parents and teachers committee that individual children couldn't be discussed in a group meeting, which also would tend to become repetitious if held every year. Parents with several children must go to school more than one day for the longer group conferences than for shorter individual ones, it was said.

In December, 75 of the 85 teachers who had used the old written reports said they preferred the ones with check columns.

There were 111 teachers who said parents seemed satisfied with the new cards and teachers knew how to write them. Most said writing the reports was not too time consuming.

All teachers said the midyear conferences were worthwhile. Nearly all veteran teachers said they were as effective as those of the previous year. Only six teachers said they needed more help in planning and conducting the individual parent meetings.

Report Adequate
More than 90 teachers said in May that the spring written report was an adequate means of expressing progress since fall and two briefier reports are more effective than one long one at mid year.

Children's work is compared to national averages for each age rather than grade, Supt. Royce E. Kurtz explained, because grade standards vary considerably from city to city.

"We'd like to get away from thinking in terms of grade," said Retson, who said minimum standards should be in terms of the individual's ability.

"Some children are just naturally lazy," board member Victor

Tipsy Drivers Pay Fines

Marion Resident, Appleton Man Have Licenses Revoked

Two Fox Cities area men lost the right to drive for one year on drunken driving charges.

LeRoy Zingler, 20, route 1, Marion, was found guilty of drunken driving by Clintonville Justice Frank Sinkewicz when Zingler appeared in court Monday and was fined $100.

Clintonville police arrested Zingler April 22.

Donald C. Sturm, 24, 519 S. Bounds St., Appleton, forfeited bond of $128.95 in Municipal Court Tuesday afternoon on a drunken driving charge.

Appleton police arrested Sturm April 22 when they went to investigate an accident in the 800 block of W. College Avenue. Sturm damaged two cars while attempting to drive out of a parking space, police said.

He tested .20 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Kennedy Seeks Policy On Berlin Crisis

City Will Certainly be Held;
Decision to be Made on Method

BY JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The debonair surface of President Kennedy's Washington is a mask, at the moment, for the grimmest governmental soul-searching that has been since the end of the Second World War. The cause, as may be suspected, is Nikita S. Khrushchev's series of semi-ultimatums on the subject of Berlin.

Alsop

At Vienna, the president met Khrushchev's thinly-veiled threats with stony determination. At their last short encounter to say goodbye to one another, Khrushchev went especially far—as though to see whether one more extra-hard probe would not make Kennedy wince.

Khrushchev closed with the warning that he would make his grab for Berlin before the end of the year. But Kennedy merely made the laconic answer, according to report, that if Khrushchev meant what he said, the next winter was likely to be chilly.

What Khrushchev said to the president in the aide-memoire he handed to him at the end of their meeting, and what he said in his report to his own people, have all combined to give the Berlin crisis a new and far more ugly look. Thus the governmental soul-searching has begun. It is taking the form of a careful study of all the old "contingency plans," plus some new plans recently devised for parrying Khrushchev's threatened grab for Berlin with maximum firmness and minimum risk.

The stage reached in this process was misrepresented by a recent report that inter-Allied contingency planning for Berlin had already been resumed. French, British, German, and American officials met here last week to discuss the best reply to Khrushchev's Vienna aide-memoire. But true inter-Allied contingency planning—discussion of the best course to take if and when the final crunch comes—will not be seriously attempted for a little while.

This is because the American government still needs a little time to reach its own crucial decision about the best course to take. There are several different foci of governmental introspection, at the moment. On the highest level, the president himself has begun active consultations with the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other relevant officials.

At the next level, Presidential Assistant McGeorge Bundy has been charged with rounding up and analyzing all possible viewpoints for his chief. At the State Department, Secretary Dean Rusk has put the veteran Assistant Secretary, Foy Kohler, in charge of Berlin planning. Assistant Secretary Paul H. Nitze has been given comparable responsibilities at the Defense Dept.

Most significantly of all, the president has asked former Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson to review the whole mass of contingency plans and other data on the Berlin crisis, and to report to him at an early date. The choice of Acheson as the president's chief special consultant in itself indicates a policy-tendency which will not please the advocates of the softer forms of compromise.

At the moment, the things to watch for are two measures which are already being expressed at the highest level—at least partial military mobilization and an emergency effort to strengthen this country's lamentably weak civil defense system.

Ralph Egan Home Full of Original Ideas, Makes Most of Every Nook

BY MARION DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — "I think the outstanding thing about this house is that it shows, more than anything, how much can be done with very little money. My husband has the know-how and ability and I have some color sense and am always looking for new ideas." Thus Mrs. Ralph Egan, Meadow Lane, modestly discounted one of the most interesting homes in the area.

Actually the house would intrigue both men and women for it was not only built from the ground up by Ralph Egan, but almost all of the furniture was built by the owner.

Full of original ideas, it makes the most of every nook and cranny. An ironing board cupboard no longer needed is an ingenious liquor cabinet. An unattractive opening to the attic storage space has been upholstered in a handsome wool drapery material with stunning nailheads, which gives the appearance of a framed hanging at the end of a small hall.

Mr. Egan, who worked on shifts as a mechanic at Kimberly-Clark's Lakeview Mill while he was building the house, has since been transferred to the international division, installing machinery and training men in its use in other countries. He and his wife travel a great deal and have picked up unusual pieces which accent a room and bring out the exquisite workmanship of the furniture.

Makes Hardware
The living room, with warm sandalwood walls, picks up the colors of an inexpensive primitive American print, which Egan reframed in pecky cypress. Beneath the picture is a handsome maple chest, with dark red, green and white Mexican tiles inlaid in the cover. Egan also makes most of the hardware used on the furniture. The chest may be used as a coffee table as well, for one side is cabinets, and the other side open shelves, so it would be equally effective in the center of a room.

A table which will one day be an elegant antique, has a beautifully grained, highly-polished marble top. A copy of an early American piece called a "hutch" has handmade louvers and china knobs. In fact, many of the pieces are copies of Early American furniture.

Avoids Quaint Look
"We think we have taken the best of it," Mrs. Egan remarked. "We both hate the quaint, cliche look so many early American rooms have, and we try to avoid a cluttered look. Although I have acquired some pieces I love, I keep some stored away and change the bric-a-brac in the room often. We do not like plants in coffee mills and that type of things, and like to keep things the way they were originally used."

A china cabinet with handsome hardware, made entirely by Egan, was originally planned as a gun chest, "but I talked him out of it," Mrs. Egan laughed. "When he gets started on a piece of furniture I know I'll have it within a month as he can't bear to stop working on it. I sometimes threaten to send his meals down to his workshop on a conveyor belt, but I love every piece he makes, and although he is terribly modest about it, I love to show it off."

Many Conveniences
Egan has made all the cabinets in the kitchen and bathroom, as well as 90 per cent of the furniture. The bed and chests in the bedroom are all built in and have many improvements to add to the convenience. For instance, the bed, which has a low headboard, has an extra piece which can be raised for back support when reading in bed. Electrical outlets in the bed itself take care of plugs for electric blanket and reading lights.

Builds Desk
Mr. Egan built a desk for his wife to her specifications, which is also in the bedroom. A drawer in the bottom neatly houses the portable typewriter and a file drawer. Two storage drawers and a tremendous working surface with a comfortable custom-made bench make deskwork easy to dispose of. The furniture in this room is butternut, which the Egan's acquired from a farmer. It was taken to a sawmill to be planed and literally made from the tree.

Fascinating wood figures acquired in Mexico are interchangeable in every room. Mrs. Egan has a refreshingly original viewpoint on these. "I have Don Quixote because I like him, and I know I should have Pancho with him. But he is so fat and squat I don't like to look at him. So Don has to be with someone else." The house clearly reflects Mrs. Egan's independence and is attractive and colorful. She has avoided all of the stereotyped traps of so many "decorated" houses.

The TV room, which at first was a makeshift living room while Mr. Egan was making the furniture, has stunning linen draperies which came from an old Neenah home, I don't even know whose," Mrs. Egan said. The coffee table in this room has hand painted, hand fired tiles, and of course was made by her husband.

Objets D'art
Some of her objets d'art are kept on what she calls her "international shelf". A German clock, a handcarved Buddha from the Orient, a beautiful Majolica plate from Italy and Mexican copper mugs are changed from time to time to exhibit other trophies of their travels.

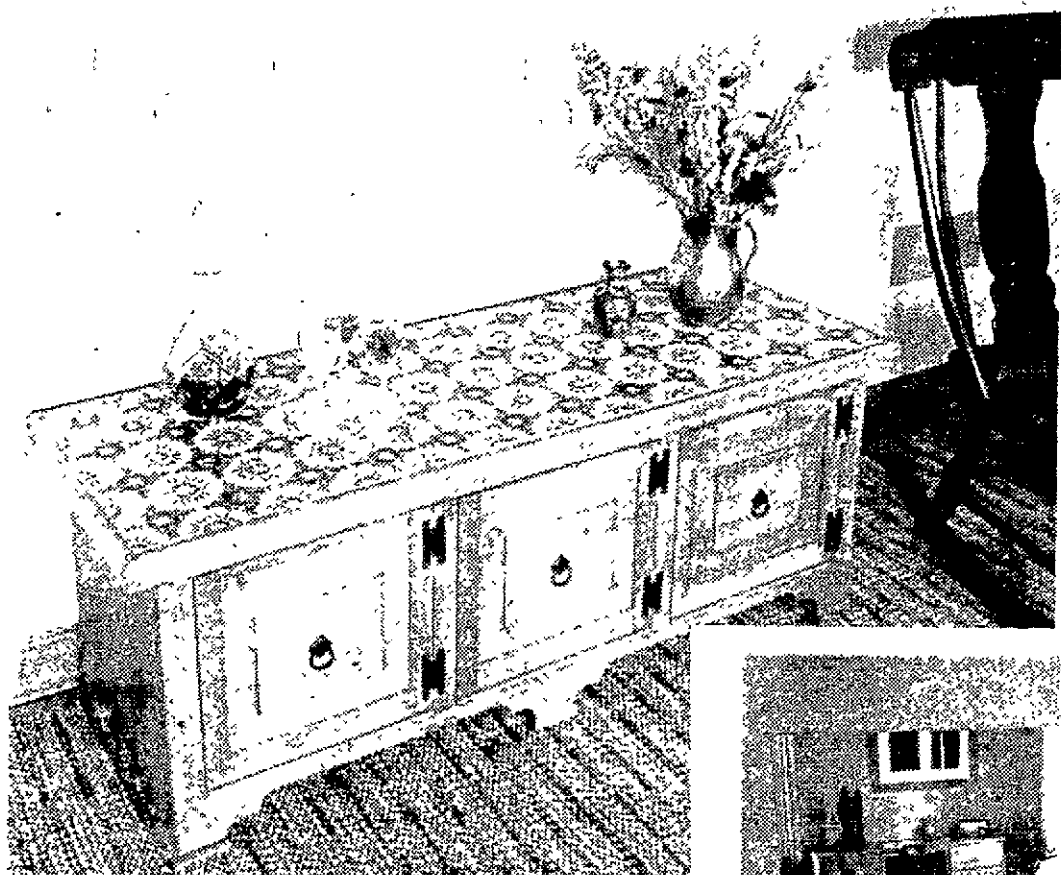

The house is a family affair in many ways. Mrs. Egan's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Panfield, Appleton, have been almost as interested. His father helped with the construction of the house itself, and his mother has made all the draperies. "Her work is so perfect," Mrs. Egan remarked. "That I never try to make them myself."

"Occasionally we talk about moving, but not very seriously. The house is easy to keep up and inexpensive to run, and I can close it for months to travel with Ralph. Besides," she added, "There is so much of us in it."

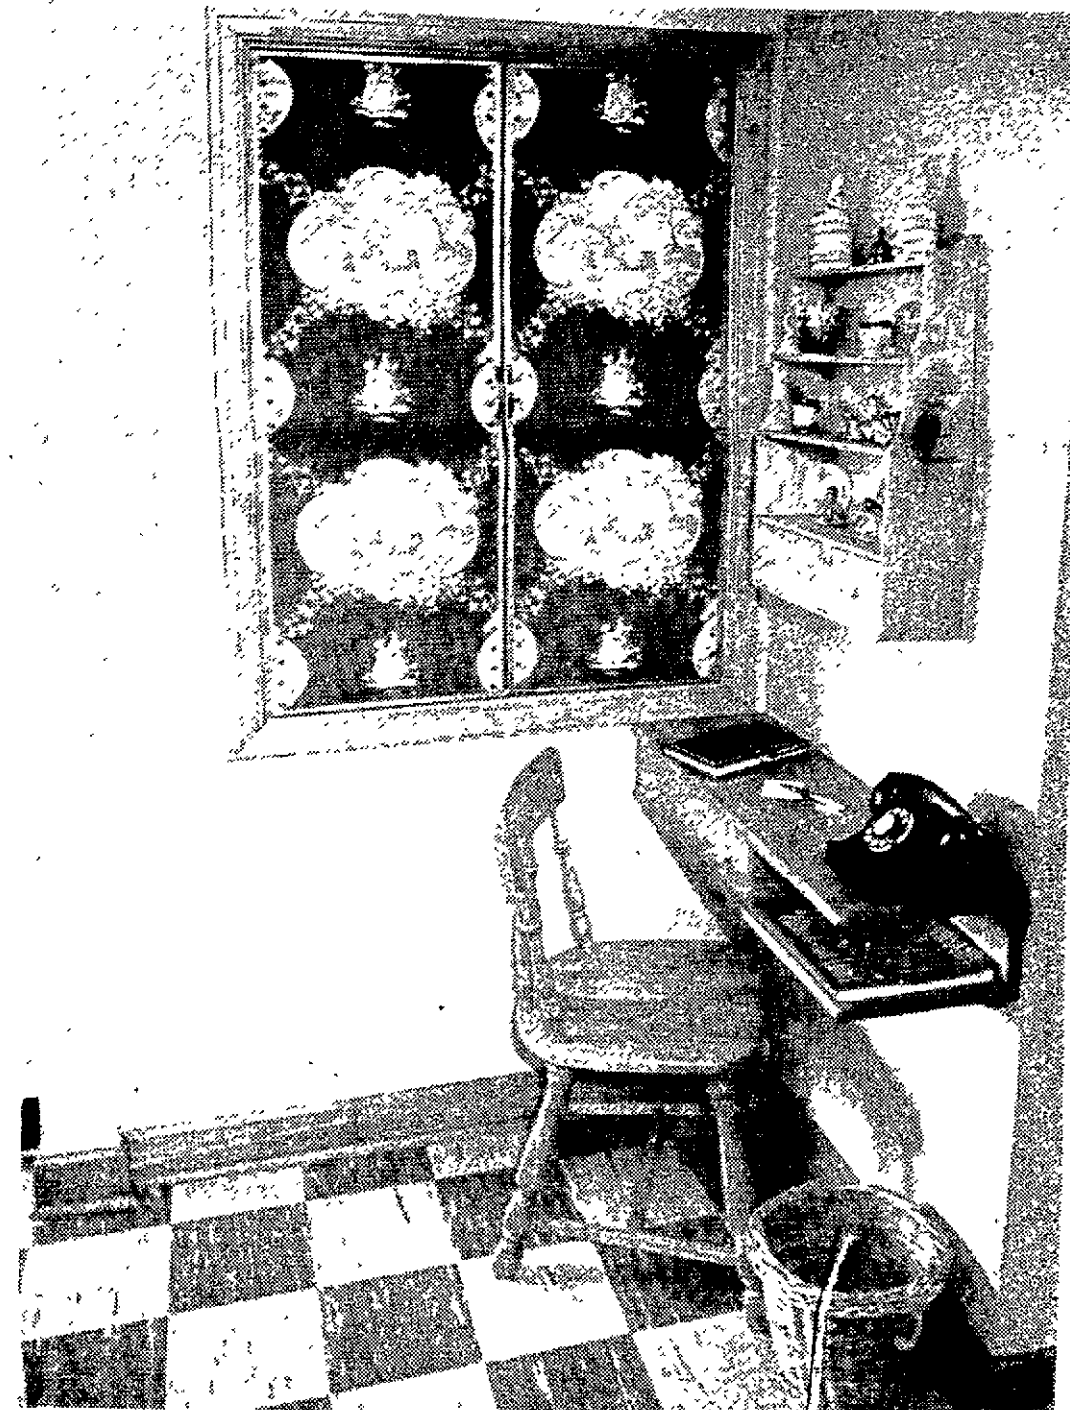

The Living Room in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Egan, Meadow Lane, Neenah, is Early American, with most of the furniture made by the owner. The table under the window has an elegant, highly polished marble top, made from a piece of marble given the Egan's by a friend. Below, a butternut tree bought from a farmer was used to make the bedroom furniture. Each piece is built in and includes, besides the chests and bed, a desk built to Mrs. Egan's specifications (reflected in the mirror) and two handsome benches. Electrical plugs in the bed frame itself provide outlets for reading lamps and electric blanket.

Inlaid Tiles From Mexico were found to pick up the colors in a favorite print above. The print is early Americana and fits in with the early American furniture made by Ralph Egan, Meadow Lane, Neenah. The rocking chair is one of the few pieces in the house that were commercially manufactured and belonged to Egan's grandfather.

An Interesting Corner of the Egan house is the telephone table, with whatnot, both made by the owner. Using toothpicks as pegs, the whatnot is a perfect facsimile of early American wall shelves. The upholstered wall piece conceals the entry to attic storage space.

Ralph Egan Home Full of Original Ideas, Makes Most of Every Nook

BY MARION DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — "I think the outstanding thing about this house is that it shows, more than anything, how much can be done with very little money. My husband has the know-how and ability and I have some color sense and am always looking for new ideas." Thus Mrs. Ralph Egan, Meadow Lane, modestly discounted one of the most interesting homes in the area.

Actually the house would intrigue both men and women for it was not only built from the ground up by Ralph Egan, but almost all of the furniture was built by the owner.

Full of original ideas, it makes the most of every nook and cranny. An ironing board cupboard no longer needed is an ingenious liquor cabinet. An unattractive opening to the attic storage space has been upholstered in a handsome wool drapery material with stunning nailheads, which gives the appearance of a framed hanging at the end of a small hall.

Mr. Egan, who worked on shifts as a mechanic at Kimberly-Clark's Lakeview Mill while he was building the house, has since been transferred to the international division, installing machinery and training men in its use in other countries. He and his wife travel a great deal and have picked up unusual pieces which accent a room and bring out the exquisite workmanship of the furniture.

Makes Hardware
The living room, with warm sandalwood walls, picks up the colors of an inexpensive primitive American print, which Egan reframed in pecky cypress. Beneath the picture is a handsome maple chest, with dark red, green and white Mexican tiles inlaid in the cover. Egan also makes most of the hardware used on the furniture. The chest may be used as a coffee table as well, for one side is cabinets, and the other side open shelves, so it would be equally effective in the center of a room.

A table which will one day be an elegant antique, has a beautifully grained, highly-polished marble top. A copy of an early American piece called a "hutch" has handmade louvers and china knobs. In fact, many of the pieces are copies of Early American furniture.

Avoids Quaint Look
"We think we have taken the best of it," Mrs. Egan remarked. "We both hate the quaint, cloye look so many early American rooms have, and we try to avoid a cluttered look. Although I have acquired some pieces I love, I keep some stored away and change the bric-a-brac in the room often. We do not like plants in coffee mills and that type of things, and like to keep things the way they were originally used."

A china cabinet with handsome hardware, made entirely by Egan, was originally planned as a gun chest, "but I talked him out of it," Mrs. Egan laughed. "When he gets started on a piece of furniture I know I'll have it within a month as he can't bear to stop working on it. I sometimes threaten to send his meals down to his workshop on a conveyor belt, but I love every piece he makes, and although he is terribly modest about it, I love to show it off."

Many Conveniences
Egan has made all the cabinets in the kitchen and bathroom, as well as 90 per cent of the furniture. The bed and chests in the bedroom are all built in and have many improvisations to add to the convenience. For instance, the bed, which has a low headboard, has an extra piece which can be raised for back support when reading in bed. Electrical outlets in the bed itself take care of plugs for electric blanket and reading lights.

Builds Desk
Mr. Egan built a desk for his wife to her specifications, which is also in the bedroom. A drawer in the bottom neatly houses the portable typewriter and a file drawer. Two storage drawers and a tremendous working surface with a comfortable custom-made bench make deskwork easy to dispose of. The furniture in this room is butternut, which the Egan's acquired from a farmer. It was taken to a sawmill to be planed and literally made from the tree.

Fascinating wood figures acquired in Mexico are interchangeable in every room. Mrs. Egan has a refreshingly original viewpoint on these. "I have Don Quixote because I like him, and I know I should have Pancho with him. But he is so fat and squal I don't like to look at him, so Don has to be with someone else." The house clearly reflects Mrs. Egan's independence and is attractive and colorful. She has avoided all of the stereotyped traps of so many "decorated" houses.

The TV room, which at first was a makeshift living room while Mr. Egan was making the furniture, has stunning linen draperies which came from an old Neenah home. "I don't even know whose," Mrs. Egan said. The coffee table in this room has hand painted, hand fired tiles, and of course was made by her husband.

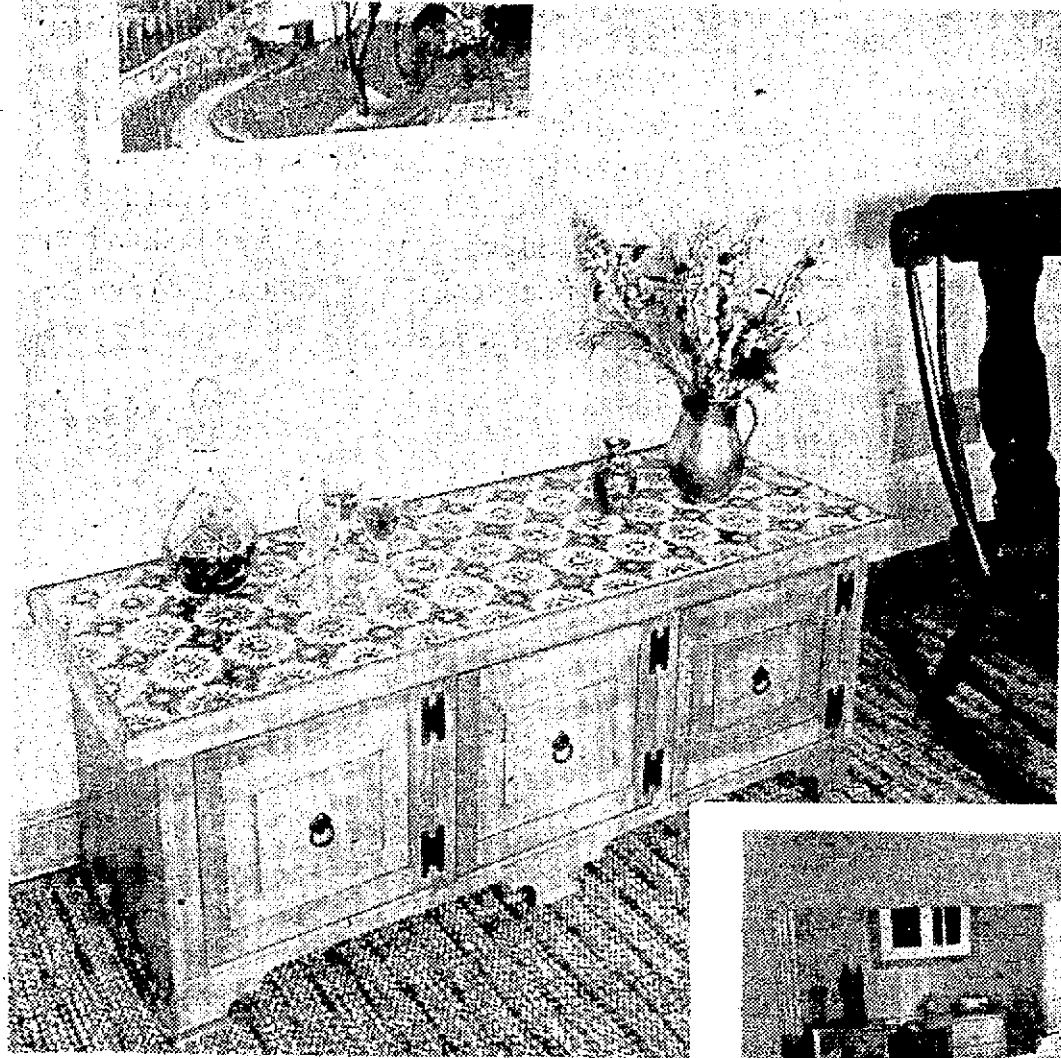

Objets D'arts
Some of her objets d'arts are kept on what she calls her "international shelf". A German clock, a handcarved Buddha from the Orient, a beautiful Majolica plate from Italy and Mexican copper mugs are changed from time to time to exhibit other trophies of their travels.

The house is a family affair in many ways. Mrs. Egan's mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Panfield, Appleton, have been almost as interested. His father helped with the construction of the house itself, and his mother has made all the draperies. "Her work is so perfect," Mrs. Egan remarked. "That I never try to make them myself."

"Occasionally we talk about moving, but not very seriously. The house is easy to keep up and inexpensive to run, and I can close it for months to travel with Ralph. Besides," she added, "There is so much of us in it."

The Living Room in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Egan, Meadow Lane, Neenah, is Early American, with most of the furniture made by the owner. The table under the window has an elegant, highly polished marble top, made from a piece of marble given the Egan's by a friend. Below, a butternut tree bought from a farmer was used to make the bedroom furniture. Each piece is built in and includes, besides the chests and bed, a desk built to Mrs. Egan's specifications (reflected in the mirror) and two handsome benches. Electrical plugs in the bed frame itself provide outlets for reading lamps and electric blanket.

Adopted Child Thanks Real Mother for Her Unselfishness

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Now that the unloving mothers have blessed and blasted you, I would like to present an entirely different point of view. I was an out-of-wedlock child.

About 30 years ago I was born to a woman who became involved with a married man. He refused to divorce his wife and marry my mother. I was put up for adoption and placed in a happy home.

I grew up knowing I was adopted. In the early years I secretly despised my mother for allowing herself to become involved in such a sordid mess. I waited until I was 28 to marry because I hated to divulge my own origin, fearing rejection. Can you imagine the problems I would have encountered if I had been reared by an unmarried mother?

Today I wish I could see my mother and thank her for allowing me to live a normal life in a home with a mother and a father. I'm not alone when I say as an adopted child, "Thank you, wonderful Mother, wherever you may be for your unselfishness. I shall be eternally grateful to you."—The Child You Gave Up

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are supposed to run a love column but you seem to stick your nose into all sorts of things unrelated to the work you were hired for. I've read your column for a long time and have decided you must be a paid stooge for the head-shrinkers and the United States Army. You are constantly telling mothers that their children are probably disturbed, when what they actually need is a good smack in the mouth. And your ill-disguised plugs for the Armed services are nauseating.

The Army is a corrupting force, a monstrous evil—enforced slavery. It takes quiet, peace-loving young people and makes them killers. It uproots productive and useful citizens and tosses them into an alien atmosphere of mental and social inferiority.

You'll never print this letter because it contains too many truths you are unable to refute. For Freedom do you think we would remain free if we had no army to defend us?

It would be a wonderful world if there were no nuclear weapons, and no armies anywhere and all those billions could be spent on health, education, research and building.

But let's not kid ourselves. We are locked in a death struggle between two conflicting ideologies. We can't afford to be lulled to sleep.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Jean and I have been sweethearts for fifteen years. The other evening we had a dinner date. I was to pick her up at 8 o'clock.

I telephoned her in advance saying I had lost my umbrella and misplaced my raincoat. She said it was O.K. and that she'd use her own.

I drove over there and by the time I arrived it was raining very hard. I blew the horn and she came out.

Her opening remark was: "A gentleman would have come to the door. Blowing a horn is unforgivable." I tried to reason with her but she insisted I was ungracious and uncouth. Was I? —Ol' Virginy

Dear Virginy: If your sweetheart has not objected to 15 years of "going together" I can't imagine why she would attach so much importance to a few minutes in the rain. Under the circumstances you did the sensible thing.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright 1961)

Today's Etiquette

IT'S YOUR MOVE

We have never met the parents of the girl our son is going to marry in the fall. They live out of town and we will not be able to meet them until the day of the wedding or the day before. What are we supposed to do? Some say we should write them a letter after the engagement has been officially announced. If so, is there anything in particular that we need to say?

Louise Davis Answers:
It is your place, as parents of the boy, to make the first move. Since the girl's parents live out of town, a nice friendly letter is your solution. If you all should live in the same city or town, it would be a simple matter to call on the fiancée's parents or invite them to your home. Your note would be a substitute for the get-together. It is one way to begin a pleasant acquaintance which may ripen later into a warm friendship. You four parents will have much in common throughout the years, your children and grandchildren. The four of you can get to know each other pretty well with your exchange of letters. I suggest that you get busy now and not wait for an official engagement announcement. Just be yourself and let the parents know how happy you are that your son has found "the only girl in the world." Assuming that you have already met your future daughter-in-law, you can say that you and your husband are welcoming her with open arms. I suggest that you also say that you hope they will keep you informed as to wedding plans.

Sheinwold Plan Ahead If Trying To Finess

Most players have an instinct that guides them swiftly and surely to the wrong way of finessing.

West takes two spades and then switches to a club. South can now afford to lose only one trump trick.

Most bridge players would "instinctively" lead a low trump from dummy, finessing the queen from the South hand. As it happens, this loses to the king. Declarer later tries to draw the rest of the trumps with dummy's jack and his own ace, but East gets the setting trick with the ten of hearts.

Unlucky? Not at all. Switch the trumps, and you'll still get the same result. If East has the doubleton king of trumps, your first finesse will work. On the next trick the jack, king and ace of trumps will fall together. The

Refreshing Ideas

If you wish to discover the secret of staying flower-fresh on a scorching hot day or evening, combine this routine with the standard grooming procedures:

Freshen your facial complexion via a greaseless cleanser that contains moisturizers, bactericides and eight of trumps will then defeat the contract.

In short, finessing the queen is a sure way to lose two trump tricks when the trumps break 4-2, regardless of which opponent has the king. If the trumps break 3-3 you can play the trumps upside down or sideways and still make the contract.

The correct play is to get to your hand with a diamond and begin the trumps by leading low from your own hand toward dummy's jack.

This does not save you if either opponent has four trumps headed by the king, nor if West has four to the ten. In those situations you are doomed, just as you are safe against any 3-3 break.

The proper play helps you if West has the doubleton king. West cannot gain by playing a low trump, so he must put up his king. Dummy's jack and your own ace-queen will later draw the rest of the trumps.

Daily Question
As dealer, you hold: S A K 10 9 6, H K 9, D 8 7, C J 10 9 6. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. You have 11 points in high cards, and first finesse will work. On the next trick the jack, king and ace ways open a 13-point hand when you have a strong major suit.

deodorant soap. The protection is long-lasting. Moreover, the same elements in the soap that control odor also control the bacteria that spread blemishes.

To keep the mouth sweet, rinse with an oral antiseptic. A revolutionary new type promises 12-hour protection. This prolonged effectiveness is due to anti-bacterial agent, which quickly lines the membranes and then is slowly released by them. Thus the antiseptic performs a continuing job.

For make-up with staying power, investigate the three-in-one formulas. These pre-blend moisturizers, foundation and powder. They lie weightless on the skin and their look is cool perfection.

And just for an aura of "coolth," surround yourself with a light cologne. Those with overtones of lemon or lime have an especially refreshing air.

Merrill Setting for Nuptial Rite

St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church, Merrill, was the setting Saturday for the marriage of Miss Mary Ann Michalski, route 4, Merrill, and Michael L. Mares. The 11 a. m. nuptial rite was performed by the Rev. L. N. Fraher. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jake Michalski, Merrill, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mares, Bear Creek.

Miss Margaret Gross, Stevens Point, attended her friend as maid of honor. Mrs. Kenneth Winegarden, Appleton, and Miss Jo Ann Michalski, the bride's sister, were bridesmaids.

The bridegroom chose his brother, Lloyd Mares, Bear Creek, as best man. Another brother, Pat Mares, Appleton, and Alfred Poppe, Bear Creek, performed the duties of groomsmen. Guests were seated by Larry Michalski, Co.

Bad. Remember the traffic accident couplet: "He was right, dead right as he rode along, but he's just as dead as if he were wrong." Letting the other fellow have the right of way at times won't hurt you, and it could save you a great deal of misery. This is true not only on the highway but in other situations too. When you can graciously let the other person have his way, even when he's wrong, he gets a chance to learn, and you have gained a friend and lost nothing of the insight that is yours. You don't need to capitulate. But it isn't need to fight in every issue either.

The Ailing House

Hair Oil Stain on Upholstery

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: How can I clean an upholstered chair that is being stained from hair oil? The chair is covered with a beige figured, linen-cotton material.

A: Upholstery shampoo and stain-removing preparations are available at many housewares, upholstery and variety stores; follow manufacturer's instructions carefully for use. I assume the oil has not penetrated to the chair stuffing. The following home treatment is usually effective: Make a thin paste of powdered chalk and a mixture of half benzene (being careful of fire hazard) and half a nonflammable liquid spot remover; spread a thick coat of this over the stained area; when dry, brush off; if necessary, repeat treatment until stain removed. Suggest that brand of hair oil be abandoned in favor of type that's greaseless.

BEE'S NEST UNDER ROOF

Q: We moved into our new home several months ago; the house is just two years old. Already we find bees have been forming a nest under the front edge of the roof, above our second floor windows. How can we get rid of them?

A: This is an extremely dangerous job and should be attempted only if the entire body is protected with thick clothing which stings will not penetrate, with bee netting and a broad brimmed hat to protect the face, and gloves on the hands. I recommend having a reputable professional exterminator do the job. After dark, when bees are at home, spray the entrance of the nest with an aerosol or hand spray, using an insecticide containing pyrethrum and synergists, as well as either DDT or lindane. This will destroy, or at least stun the bees, and the nest should be taken down after a

Guests Visit In Winneconne

WINNECONNE — Mrs. Gladys Hawksworth and daughter, Carol, left Monday for a 6-week trip through western states. They will visit Mrs. Hawksworth's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Smehl in Oregon.

After visiting friends and relatives in Winneconne, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Button returned to their home in Des Plaines, Ill.

Miss Christine Hilmann and Mrs. Leon Quigley left Monday for Los Angeles, Calif., where they will visit friends, including Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Rhone, who have been guests in Winneconne the past week.

Houseguests at the Gordon Wentzel home are Mrs. Wentzel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Barry, Decatur, Ill.

Tuesday Birthday Club members entertained their husbands at a dinner party, Sunday, in New London. Couples attending included Mr. and Mrs. Vernice Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kietz, Mr. and Mrs. James Christensen, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rosek, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Rogers and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Luebke.

while, placed in a paper bag and burned immediately.

PEELING CONCRETE PAINT

Q: What would cause paint to peel off cement steps and the porch? I have used a rubber base paint plus a cement exterior paint—nothing seems to do any good. It looks beautiful for about a month, then it starts to peel and get messy again.

A: The paint may be peeling because the concrete surface was not properly etched before applying the paint. Apply a concrete and masonry etching and cleaning preparation, available large paint dealers and masonry supplies houses, following label directions carefully. Then apply a top quality rubber base exterior masonry or deck paint.

Our Children

Make Friends Slowly In New Neighborhood

BY ANGELO PATRI

Many families find themselves in new neighborhoods, strangers in an environment to which they must adjust. This often seems hardest on the children who have had to change schools and their companions. It is they, the parents make their first consideration; parents find a school easily enough, and usually a church is within easy distance. But what about the doctor?

Few families that have children of pre-school or elementary school-age will escape the need for medical help. In a strange neighborhood they are bound to be at a loss as to where to find the good doctor whose acquaintance they want to make before the hour of need. The best way is to ask at the hospital. When that is not convenient or possible, the American Medical Association, whose address is in the telephone book, will always send you at least three names of physicians they approve. Then the selection is up to the head of the family.

Ask Authorities
Neighbors are always willing to help out here, but the surest way are the ones mentioned above. Since people have different opinions about people and often prejudices as well, best to ask the authorities on the matter.

Of course, the children will need the services of a dentist. They will need to visit a good one, and one who likes care of children. Some do not want child patients, so that is something to check soon after arrival in a new community. After finding the right man or woman, do see that the children get to him at least twice a year. Remember, the first teeth must be well cared for, because good care of them helps the permanent set.

Baptist Youth Attend Camp

ALLENVILLE—Allenville Community Baptist Church young people attending Camp Tamarack, Waupaca, are Lucine Thies, James Clark, Russell and Todd Allen, Kay Boss, Julaine Brill, Thomas Raehl and Lois Winkewerder.

Bible School closed at the church with a Friday picnic.

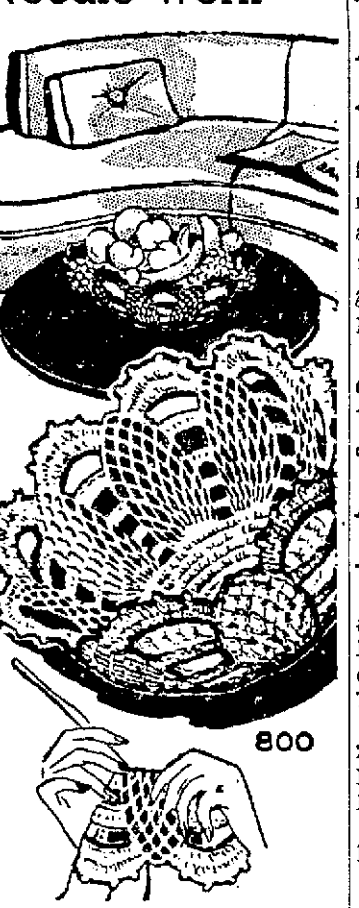

Progressive Homemakers Club will have a Thursday noon pot-luck luncheon at Mrs. George Tippler's home.

Guard the sixth year molars as the jewels they are. Far too many children lose them because of neglect and they can never be replaced. It is well not to be in a hurry about making friends in a new neighborhood. Take time, watch and listen, step carefully, lest an unfortunate intimacy be formed. The very first visitor who rushes in may be the very last one a newcomer would want to have as a friend. Real friends come of longer acquaintance, are time tested and wear well. It is best always to try to be one's self. That saves a world of regret.

PET DOCTOR

By A. W. Moller, D.V.M.

Q. Is it possible to take a flash picture of a squirrel monkey without hurting his eyes? J. Hoffert, Bethlehem, Pa.

A. In their wild state, squirrel monkeys have to put up with lightning flashes, so I don't think a flash bulb would hurt his eyes. However, it would startle him so that I don't think it would be worth it. The closer to the wild state an animal is, the faster his reaction. He would jump in more modern wink light attachments, which do not seem to disturb the animals as much. Or you could get very nice movies of his tricks if you used a bank of flood lights and increased the intensity of the light gradually.

How to be a Baseball Parent in 9 Lessons

BY JEAN OTTO

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

This is the era of "how to's." Because almost every American boy is involved in the game of baseball in some way or other, and because most of them have two parents, it follows that a great number of people need to know how to be a baseball parent.

This is not as simple as it sounds. Like being happy every day of the year, making $2,000,000 on the stock market and going to work without getting up in the morning, it requires a singular amount of concentration.

There are, however, a few simple rules which will make the task easier and assure the desired effects.

1. Teach your boy the importance of winning. Sportsmanship is much over-rated in this day of competition. It's not the game, but the score that matters in the long run.
2. Do not sit quietly when your son's team makes errors. Your silence will indicate approval. Scream, yell and otherwise make yourself vociferously harassing. This will encourage the boys to do better.
3. Entreat, implore, beg and cajole your offspring not to slide into bases, run too fast to first, or exert himself in the field. His health must always be your prime concern.
4. If your interest in the team's standing is really high, take advantage of this approved method of creating a winning team. Stand behind the fence when your boy's team is at bat. Get your son's attention and tell him what he is doing wrong. If you really try, you can get him to upset that it will affect his entire game.
5. Tell the umpire what you think of his decisions. Furthermore, make sure your son throws his bat, stomps on his glove, and makes other significant gestures to show his disapproval of an incorrect call. It is possible you may make the offending official feel so guilty he will slant his future decisions in your favor.
6. Call up the manager at his home if your son doesn't play the

Win Applause With New Versions Of Traditional Winner: Sandwiches

Many things, including ants and sunburns, are familiar at picnics, but nothing seems more traditional and welcome than the sandwich.

Mastering the art of imaginative sandwich-making will put Mom in first place with the picnic-goer, young and oldster alike. To help her, here are a few new versions of the sandwich which feature an old-time favorite, deviled ham.

'Devilicious' Sandwedges'
1 round loaf rye or white bread mayonnaise
1 package Swiss cheese, sliced
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1/4 tomatoes, sliced
two 4 1/2-ounce cans deviled ham
Slice bread crosswise in thirds and spread bottom two slices with mayonnaise. Put layers together with Swiss cheese, chopped onion, green pepper, deviled ham and tomatoes. Cut in wedges and serve.

Yard-long Sandwich
2 cans deviled ham
1 loaf French bread
1/2 cup butter
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1/2 cup finely minced onion
dill pickles
Cut French bread into 3/4-inch slices down to, but not through, the bottom crust. Cream together with butter and mustard and spread between bread slices. Spread alternate slices with deviled ham and sprinkle shredded cheese on remaining slices. Spoon chopped onion onto the deviled ham and insert thin slices of dill pickle into the cheese. Wrap loaf in aluminum foil and heat in 400-degree oven for 12 to 15 minutes, until bread is hot and cheese is melted.

Hot Ham-Furters
one 4 1/2-ounce can deviled ham
1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
1/4 cup chopped, stuffed olives
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
6 frankfurter rolls
Combine deviled ham, cheese, olives, onions and mayonnaise. Split rolls and fill with ham mixture and wrap each roll securely in foil. Heat over an open grill.

Pickle-in-the-Middle 8 slices American cheese
two 4 1/2-ounce cans deviled ham
8 strips of pickle, length of cheese slices
8 medium salad rolls
Allow cheese to come to room temperature for easier handling. Spread each slice of cheese generously with deviled ham. Place pickle strip on top of deviled ham along straight edge of the cheese and roll up. Wrap tightly in waxed paper and chill.

Before serving slash each roll lengthwise, nearly to bottom. Insert the chilled filling. Heat in 400-degree oven for eight to 10 minutes, until cheese melts.

Distinctive Dressing For Fresh Fruit Salad Includes Juice, Honey

Obviously meant for each other are fresh fruit salads and this distinctive dressing that's a smooth blend of evaporated milk, peanut butter, lemon juice and honey.

Place one-half cup peanut butter in a small bowl, then slowly blend in one-half cup evaporated milk and beat until mixture is smooth. Stir in one tablespoon lemon juice, a pinch of salt and one tablespoon honey, then blend in an additional one-fourth cup evaporated milk.

Makes about one and one-half cups of dressing that will do marvelous things for a mixed fruit salad of sliced bananas, chopped apple and grapefruit sections or for any of your own pet fruit combinations.

Peppermint Drink

When you need a late afternoon pick-up mix one-third cup chocolate milk and one scoop peppermint ice cream in bottom of glass. Fill glass two-thirds full with milk, stir until blended. Top with two scoops ice cream.

Answers to the hungriest outdoor appetites are these man-sized "devilicious sandwedges." Swiss cheese, peppers, onions, tomatoes and deviled ham provide zesty filling for a round bread-loaf, white or rye.

Deviled Ham, Relishes, cheese and French bread are secrets behind this eye-tempting, yard-long sandwich. Served hot with a favorite beverage, this treat is an asset to any summer outing.

Families Make Holiday 'Cookout Time, USA'

Give Hot Dogs New Trappings In Festive Style

The Fourth of July is the day we celebrate our independence—from offices, classrooms and household chores.

We're free to spend the day how and where we like it. For most of us, "where" is outdoors, and the high point of the day comes when the family gathers around the charcoal grill.

Hot dogs, packed with meat power, are a treat with nothing more than buns and mustard for adornment. But because this is a special day, you may want to give them special trappings.

What could be simpler than lining buns with seasoned baked beans and a slice of cheese before adding the franks?

These Frank 'N Beanwiches can be assembled at home and carried to the picnic in foil pack-

Frank 'N Beanwiches
1 pound can baked beans
1 teaspoon minced onion
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
10 frank buns
10 slices Cheddar cheese

Combine baked beans, minced onion, mustard, salt, pepper, and Worcestershire sauce in a pan and heat for about five minutes.

Spoon some of the bean mixture into each frank bun. Place one slice of cheese on top of beans in each bun. Top each slide of cheese with a frank.

Wrap bun individually in foil. Heat in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F, or on a grill for about 10 minutes to heat franks and melt cheese. Serve hot.

Crispy Frank Sandwiches
1 pound package franks
2 cups shredded lettuce
1 cup shredded carrot
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 cup dairy soured cream
2 tablespoons blue cheese
10 frank buns

Combine lettuce, carrot, onion, and celery seed. Blend together sour cream and blue cheese. Combine lettuce mixture and sour cream mixture. Heat franks. Place some of the lettuce mixture in each bun. Place a frank on top. Serve immediately.

Serve Shrimp Creole As Elegant Patio Meal

Shrimp Creole makes a simple but elegant patio dish.

Saute one-half cup finely chopped green pepper, one-half cup chopped celery, one medium sized onion, chopped, on one stick butter in blazer pan of chafing dish. When vegetables are tender, add one can condensed tomato soup, one teaspoon vinegar. Simmer 10 minutes. Add two cups canned or fresh shrimp, season to taste and heat thoroughly. Serve over beds of fluffy buttered rice. Recipe makes six servings.

Chicken Fills Bill for Light, Thrifty Meals

Light, refreshing luncheons are the order of the day during the warm summer months.

Chicken can fill the bill of fare in many tempting sandwiches and salads. And chicken is a wise choice now, with broilers and fryers at exceptionally attractive prices.

For a quick yet satisfying treat try a Chicken-Roquefort Sandwich. Spread toast with mayonnaise. Add slices of cooked chicken and crisp lettuce. Close of toast spread with mashed Roquefort or Blue Cheese. Cut the sandwiches diagonally, and spear each half with a pickle or olive topped wooden pick.

Chicken Mousse

On the more glamorous side try Chicken Mousse, a shimmering salad delight. Soften one package of unflavored gelatin in one-half cup cold water, and dissolve in two cups of hot chicken stock or bouillon. Season with grated onion, Worcestershire sauce, paprika, salt and pepper.

Chill until slightly thickened. Mix in two cups diced cooked chicken, one-half cup finely chopped celery and one-fourth cup finely chopped green pepper. Re-

Keep Cool in Summer With Lemon Refresher

What's so satisfying as a "Lemon Refresher" on a summery day?

For a party of five to six: combine four cups cold milk, one and one-half cups fresh lemon juice, eight tablespoons sugar and one pint vanilla ice cream. Beat until smooth. Pour into glasses, topping each with a scoop of ice cream.

Beat in one teaspoon lemon juice. Fold into the gelatin mixture and chill until firm. Serve on platter, salami is a meat that picks and filling with cole slaw tastes good and adds nutritive or cottage cheese.

Cold Cuts Make Summer Meals Simpler to Fix

Easy living in the summer is much simpler when the meals take little preparation. Cold cuts are one of the highest honored "convenience" foods in summer. They're ready to serve alone or with other foods that require no preparation.

For a salad, cut salami into thin strips and toss with shredded raw carrots, pickle relish and diced celery. Blend with mayonnaise or other salad dressing. For soup, stir salami slivers into canned or frozen split pea soup. A hot main dish is quickly prepared from a can of German-style potato salad into which cold main dish for summer is salad cornucopias, made by folding thin slices of the meat into cone shapes, fastening with toothpicks, salami is a meat that picks and filling with cole slaw tastes good and adds nutritive or cottage cheese.

Serve Hearty Fare With Special Flair At Colorful Fourth of July Outing

Decorations Add Patriotic Touch To Family Picnic

A colorful charcoal cookout and the 4th of July go together. Often it's a weekend for family reunions. How to feed a crowd? Set out grill and wood charcoal briquets on the lawn under a blue sky. Deck the serving table with a red white and blue color scheme. A wood picnic table serves a crowd. Or you can improvise with cards tables set up as serving area. A heavy white paper table cloth is the first decorative touch. To prevent blowing, you can secure it to the table legs with big red ribbon bows, use clear or decorative cellophane tape, or thumb-tack it down with blue roses. Ready tied ribbon can be found in most gift shops. Dessert can be a big red watermelon at center of table or big bowl of red apples at either end. Set out white paper plates and cups blue or pink paper napkins and a sparkler with a name tag at each plate. The charcoal grill does the rest.

"Patriotic Burgers"
In honor of the occasion even hamburgers come in dress up costumes. Hamburger goes red white and blue with delicious results.

A Hearty Lunch sizzling on the grill give Dad, Sis and Junior every reason to smile into Mom's camera. The rugged scenery of Door County behind them is just one of the tempting settings Wisconsin offers to picnic and camera fans.

Fill ground beef patties with crumpled blue cheese, grill them over the last few minutes of broiling. Charcoal and top with sour cream. Serve with heaping bowls of potato salad and sliced beefsteak toasts. The Yankee Doodle dogs are as simple. Split frankfurters. Fill with chopped onions, grated American cheese and a tablespoonful of barbecue sauce. Grill over the coals and serve with charcoal-toasted buns and baked beans. A piping-hot beanpot can sit at side of the cooking rack for handy refills. Add a big green salad, crisp potato chips and sparkling carbonated beverages. You can feed an army. Or you may prefer another red, white and blue meal both practical and delicious. A charcoal grilled center cut ham steak is your main dish.

Macaroni Salad
Plan a salad — call it macaroni — to be a feather in your cap. Use two parts cooked and drained elbow macaroni to one part finely chopped celery and green pepper. Mix with mayonnaise, top with crumbled hard boiled egg yolk and chopped fresh dill and sprinkle with paprika. Serve in a generous bowl or individually on fresh lettuce leaves.

Delectable dessert with this meal is blueberry pie heated in a foil plate on your charcoal grill. The grill will cook your coffee, too. Wood charcoal briquets can be counted on to give cooking heat for an hour or more and additional coal can be added if needed. If you've planned the outdoor feast to end at sundown, the embers in your grill are just right for lighting sparklers. Your party ends on a note of jubilee. And with no dishes to wash even the hostess celebrates liberty.

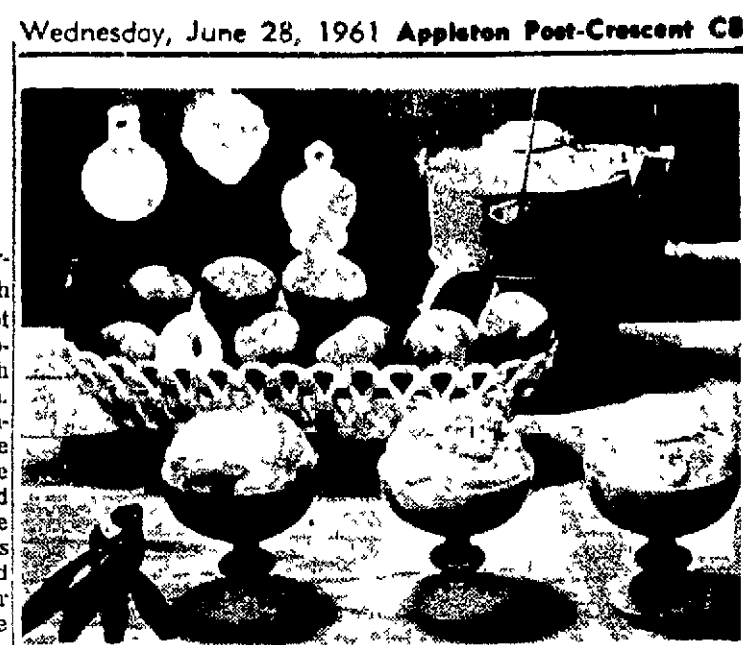

Ice Cream Traditional For Fourth

BY EDITH M. BARBER
Homemade ice cream or sherbet was formerly a special Fourth of July treat. Every member of the family helped a little with the preparation. Wisely, Mother prepared the mixture for the freezer can and supervised the measurement of ice and coarse salt for packing. The children took turns crushing the ice. All — even Father — took a whiff at the freezer.

There was generally an argument when it came time to choose the flavoring. Should it be seasonal strawberries or early peaches from the South?

Today, few of us will be turning an old-fashioned ice cream freezer, but will content ourselves with a frozen dessert of the mousse type, or with a fresh fruit sauce topping purchased ice cream — which, incidentally, has steadily improved in quality.

Fresh Peach
Buttermilk Sherbet
1½ cups crushed fresh peaches
1½ cups buttermilk
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg white
Combine all ingredients except help to preserve natural color.

Cottage-Blue Dip
For zesty "Cottage-Blue Dip," beat one and one-half cups creamed cottage cheese until smooth. Add one third cup crumbled blue cheese, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two teaspoons finely chopped onion and three tablespoons cream. Makes one and one-half cups. Sweeten to taste and serve over balls of vanilla or peach ice cream.

Instant Salad Bright Idea Wide-Mouthed Thermos Useful For Packing

The instant idea is welcomed by anyone who hates spending time in the kitchen when the weather outside is perfect for picnics.

Salads can be as "instant" as anything else. The secret is a wide mouthed thermos to hold the salad or an insulated bag or cold chest in which plastic containers holding the salad can be safely carried to the picnic.

Here are two tested recipes for salads to take on picnics:

Artichoke Salad

2 packages frozen Artichoke Hearts
6 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of black pepper
1 tablespoon diced pimiento
2 tablespoons thinly sliced scallions
Small head of lettuce
2 tomatoes

Cook artichoke hearts in boiling salted water as directed on package until just tender, five to eight minutes. Drain and cool. Combine salad oil, lemon juice, garlic, salt and pepper. Place artichoke hearts in plastic bowl or container with a lid. Sprinkle pimiento and scallions over top. Pour marinade over artichoke hearts. Cover and chill. Take lettuce and tomatoes to picnic in plastic bag. Serve marinated artichoke hearts on lettuce with wedges of tomatoes.

Aloha Picnic Salad

1 package frozen Cut Green beans
1 cup mayonnaise
1 to 2 teaspoons curry powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
Dash of black pepper
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
1 pound (3 cups) diced cooked ham
1 No. 2 can cubed pineapple, drained
1/4 cup diced green pepper
1/2 cup diced celery
2 cups cold cooked rice
1 head lettuce
3 tomatoes

Cook cut green beans in boiling water as directed on package until just tender, crisp, about eight minutes. Drain and cool. Combine mayonnaise, curry powder, salt, pepper, and onion. Add green beans, ham, pineapple, green pepper, and celery, mixing well. Chill until time to leave for picnic, then stir in rice. Makes eight cups or six to eight servings. Place lettuce and tomatoes in plastic bag. Serve salad on lettuce with tomato cut in wedges.

Gelatin, Wine Form Base For Vegetable Salad

Crisp textured vegetables suspended in a hearty wine-flavored gelatin make this salad a summer delight.

Vegetable Aspic Salad

1/2 cup beef or chicken broth or water
1/2 cup California Burgundy or other red dinner wine
2 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 envelope plain gelatin
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
3 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup grated carrot
1 cup finely shredded cabbage
Combine broth, wine, wine vinegar and gelatin. Heat, stirring, until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat, add remaining ingredients. Spoon into individual molds or small ring mold. Chill until firm.

Serve on crisp salad greens with your favorite dressing. Recipe makes six servings.

Include Butter In Burger Sauce

Butter-barbecue burgers are everybody's outdoor favorite.

Mix one pound ground beef with one-half cup instant nonfat dry milk, one-half cup water, one-fourth cup chopped onion, one-half teaspoon salt. Shape into six to eight rolls. Spear with skewers.

Meanwhile make butter-barbecue sauce. In large skillet blend together one stick melted butter, two tablespoons prepared mustard, two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Put burgers in skillet with butter-barbecue sauce. Cook over hot coals, rotating burgers occasionally, until of desired doneness.

Serve on warm wiener buns. For variety, stick cubes of sharp cheddar cheese into burgers. Shape into small meat balls and put three on a skewer alternating with cubes of fruit or vegetables.

Dress Tossed Greens With Cottage Cheese

Use cottage cheese to dress tossed greens.

Blend well with rotary or electric mixer one cup creamed cottage cheese, one-fourth cup light cream, three-fourths teaspoon celery seed, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon dried thyme, few grains pepper. Makes one cup.

Keen Detective Finds Solution to 'Mystery'

BY FRANCIS STILEY

NEW YORK (AP)—As pump-kinhead amateur gardeners go, I just about went batty—trying to solve the mystery of my vanishing marigolds.

It's a goofy story, though when I tell it I get the impression people think it's me who's goofy. Here's what happened:

I started some small marigolds in pots in the house. When they got about three inches tall, I were going to do well this year. The peculiar part was that transplanted them to the postage-stamp-sized garden in front of my apartment.

Super-Duper Grower

I basked in a warm glow of satisfaction, knowing that not only my marigolds but the petunias, zinnias, cosmos, and pansies all they were disappearing one by one.

After all, I put 100 pounds of peat they had been snapped off cleanly moss, two bushels of humus and at the stem about an inch above gallons of a super-duper liquid-growth mixture in my 1-100,000th of an acre.

A few days after transplanting the small marigolds, I discovered yo-yo year.

At first, I thought perhaps stray boomerangs from neighbor child drew had done it. But this is a Then, while sitting on the front porch one night, I was sure I had had planted any marigolds in her garden, my eye happened to fall on my own botanical wonder-land.

At Last—The Answer

A bird about the size of a robin was just yanking out another of the marigolds. And zoom!—like a Redstone rocket it went whizzing right by me, clutching my marigold in its pesky beak. In a few seconds, it was out of sight behind buildings across the street.

This explanation didn't hold up either, unfortunately. The marigolds kept disappearing—but now, roots and all, without a trace left.

Woman Sees Bomb, Officials Stay Calm

NEW YORK (AP)—A cleaning woman took one look at a five-inch cylinder lying on a coffee table on the fourth floor of the Empire State Building Monday night and rushed to the custodian.

Police, summoned by the custodian, arrived in force—radio cars, detectives, laboratory men, emergency squad, bomb squad — and some firemen.

But as soon as detective John Barry of the technical laboratory saw the cylinder, he identified it — a graphite gun used to squirt powder into locks and other devices to lubricate them.

"It looked exactly like a bomb," said Mary Sulak.

Stanleyville In Congo Now Peaceful

Center of Activity
Of Lumumba Calm,
Safe for Whites

STANLEYVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Life in this stronghold of slain Patrice Lumumba's followers is much more pleasant and peaceful than outsiders imagine. Foreigners who visit the north-east Congo city are surprised to find that despite rumors of chaos and famine, food is plentiful and many whites still live here.

About 300 Belgians, many with wives and children, dwell in the sprawling jungle community on the banks of the Congo River. They run shops and hotels and work in local business firms. Several are employed by the provincial Ministry of Education.

Greeks Strong
Other European colonies include Greek, Italian, West German and Portuguese. The Greeks are strongest; about 5,000 of them are scattered throughout Oriental Province.

Most of the Greeks stayed on during the hectic days after independence, when many Belgians fled as Lumumba sent his vice premier, Antoine Gizenga, here to make this the bastion of his faction.

Although economic conditions in Oriental Province are bad in general, virtually all commodities and foodstuffs can still be found in Stanleyville shops.

Feel Shortage
There is a shortage of fuel, which has to be brought from neighboring Uganda, and cigarettes are hard to get due to a shortage of paper.

Stanleyville has two cinemas and three cabarets. A popular hangout for Europeans is the Hotel Stanley, operated by a Belgian. Another is the Congo Palace, a luxurious hotel opened by Greeks three months ago.

Tension occasionally grips Stanleyville when rumors circulate that Belgian soldiers or troops of the Leopoldville army have slipped into town. To avoid incidents, authorities have clamped a 10 p.m. curfew on the city.

This has caused a good deal of grumbling among both Europeans and Congolese, but that's about as far as it goes.

He Would Have Traded His Wife for Team of Horses 84 Years Ago

MILWAUKEE (AP)—"I'd trade a team of horses for her any day," the prospective bridegroom said. Since he was only 10 at the time, and the bride to be was a newborn babe, no one took him very seriously.

That was 84 years ago, and E. G. Gould recalled the appraisal Sunday when he and his wife celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary.

Gould, who observed his 94th birthday June 2, and his wife grew up on adjoining farms near Boone, Iowa.

Witnesses Claim Packaging System Leaves U. S. Consumer Holding Bag

BY JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A witness told senate investigators today that in these days of vast arrays of packaged goods on supermarket shelves "the word consumer is sometimes spelled sucker."

That's the way Marya Mannes, a New York magazine writer and housewife, summed up for the senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee her reaction to shopping for groceries and household supplies.

The picture she drew in a statement she submitted was reflected in the testimony of other witnesses for the start of three days of hearings presided over by Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

Hart said the initial hearings would deal with the packaging and labeling of products ordinarily sold for household consumption in supermarkets.

Weighing His Thumb
"The old-fashioned butcher was often accused of weighing his thumb," Hart said. "We want to be sure that today's consumer isn't still buying that thumb, but in a fancy package."

Sen. Maurice B. Neuberger, D-Ore., one of the first witnesses called, said she has received complaints about "slack-filled packages, hard-to-find statements of contents and weights, suggested 'best buys' by oversize packaging and misleading terminology."

Endless varieties of packaged rice or cornflakes or dried beans, she said, may be sold in containers that are uniform in size but that vary widely in content.

"Which is the better buy?" she asked. "It shouldn't be necessary to provide every shopper with a slide rule so that price comparisons can be readily made."

"I am looking towards the day," Mrs. Neuberger said, "when the 'jumbo half-quart' is bigger than the 'full half-quart' or a 'big 16 ounces' or '16 large ounces' is more than the 'king-sized half quart' or the 'giant-size half quart'."

Net Contents
She said the Food and Drug Administration never has spelled out in detail where on a package, or in what size type, the net contents must appear.

So, she said, the busy but careful shopper "stands in the supermarket aisle, twisting and turning the package, looking over all four sides to try to find a guide to contents and weight."

Mrs. Mannes also spoke of the need for a slide-rule to figure out the differences between the contents of jars of apple sauce or other products.

"And what housewife with a kid inside the cart and one at her heels can spare the time?" she asked.

"If you complain, the manufacturers say that they're saving you a price raise by reducing the contents," she said. "Can you beat it?"

Another source of confusion, Mrs. Mannes said, is in sizes. "Know the difference between giant and jumbo?" she asked.

"What's the matter with simple sizes, like a pint or two pints or quart or two quarts?" she asked. "I'll tell you what's the matter. They're too easy to figure. You might know what you are getting."

No New Treatment Known For Multiple Sclerosis

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there anything new on multiple sclerosis? — J. W., a victim of M.S."

"Do you know if they have determined the possible cause of multiple sclerosis? — B.C."

To my knowledge, there is no exciting new treatment for multiple sclerosis, nor has there been identification of the cause. If, by chance, one transpires between the time I write this and the time it appears in print, nothing could make me happier.

But although cause and cure of M.S. remain unknown, a considerable body of information has accumulated on the management of the disease, the art of keeping the patient comfortable and active.

Theories of Cause
Theories of the cause range from some unidentified virus to allergic reactions, to disorders affecting the circulation. But until there is definite knowledge of what causes M.S., and how, we have no way of seeking a cure. Much research has been done and is still in progress.

We do know that the disease is accompanied by changes in the nerve fibers, resulting in faulty operation of the muscles in the affected areas. This can be anything from visual disturbances to general muscular weakness.

It is well known that, although some cases develop rapidly, other cases are very slow, and the disease may "smoulder along" along for 20 or 30 years. For reasons unknown, the disease is featured by remissions—periods in which the symptoms subside. This makes it difficult to study the disease, but it also brings many patients substantial periods of relief.

Three Rules

Three rules of caring for M.S. are: Help the patient lead a relatively calm life, avoid fatigue, maintain good nutrition.

Emotional upsets or tension are extremely important. I have known personally of a number of instances of an emotional disturbance being followed by a relapse or worsening of the disease.

Psychotherapy, either to relieve the patient's anxiety, or to ease family discord, or alleviate other kinds of tension may be urgently required. This emotional aspect of M.S., unfortunately, is too often neglected.

Dilate Vessels

As for medical treatments, drugs to dilate blood vessels, to relax spasm, anticoagulants and antihistamines to combat whatever allergic disturbance may be present, are used but cannot be guaranteed to help — because, after all, we don't know the cause.

Physical therapy, massage, proper exercise, etc.) designed to re-educate weakened muscles, reduce spasm and preserve as much useful movement of the muscles as possible, is an accepted help.

As to diet, aside from normal, balanced meals, the B vitamins are often used.

U. S. Government Has Helter-Skelter System

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Most presidents have been likable persons, and so is John F. Kennedy. But is the reader interested in a writer's personal likes or dislikes, or in an objective appraisal of a public official's acts? Is a president best served by those who seek to curry favor with him or by those who point out the errors in the hope that corrective measures will be taken which will enable a president to win and retain public confidence?

Today if there is one thing President Kennedy needs, it is constructive criticism about the way he is conducting his job. It has been said that he is in process of being "educated" in the presidency and that one should "give him time." This is true, but the big question is whether the president is on the right track. Has he as yet sensed his own real difficulty? An article in the current issue of "Time" magazine says:

Want-Ads WORK

"The Mighty Midget" To Place a WANT-AD
Dial 3-4411

"Kennedy's administration is still young, still searching for the right formulas. Despite the failure of the Cuban invasion and the foolish uncertainty over the tractor deal, there will be other 'next times' for John Kennedy to redeem his reputation as a political leader of potential greatness. Yet if the pattern persists, there will be a clear and present danger (that President Kennedy, surrounded as he is by a din of conflicting advisory voices, may lose the confidence necessary to guide the nation through such coming struggles as Berlin."

Virtually the same points were made a few days ago in the London "Times" and the London "Sunday Telegraph" in dispatches from their Washington correspondents which were not only read in Great Britain but reprinted elsewhere.

Maxwell D. Taylor Today the nation is reading the news that a former chief of staff of the army, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, has been chosen to sit alongside President Kennedy and advise him. The official communiqué says he will not be interposed between the joint chiefs of staff and the President or between the White House and the defense department, but will keep an eye on everything military, including the gathering and interpreting of intelligence information, from all governmental agencies that collect it.

It is argued already that President Roosevelt had Adm. William D. Leahy as his personal military co-ordinator, and that this serves as a precedent. But Adm. Leahy never had the variety of duties which now have been entrusted to Gen. Taylor. Nor was there a secretary of defense in those days with authority over all the armed services.

President Kennedy has made a wise move in bringing Gen. Taylor to the executive offices, for the nation no longer has in the White House a Gen. Eisenhower as commander-in-chief of the army, the navy and the air force. Mr. Eisenhower had a soldier's background but with it a statesman's instinct for patient negotiation.

The placing of Gen. Taylor at the president's side is actually a symptom of Kennedy's deeper troubles. He has advisers galore around him. He has assigned all sorts of tasks to them. His secretary of state isn't the authoritative voice on foreign policy that the head of the state department has been in the past. Nobody around here really knows who makes foreign policy. This was basically what caused the confusion in the Cuban affair.

The critics had a field day in recent years lambasting President Eisenhower's "staff system," but deem his reputation as a political leader of potential greatness. Yet if the pattern persists, there will be a clear and present danger (that President Kennedy, surrounded as he is by a din of conflicting advisory voices, may lose the confidence necessary to guide the nation through such coming struggles as Berlin."

The fundamental difficulty is that the public — including the press — has no way of fixing responsibility from month to month for the president's acts. Most of the president's advisers have not been nominated and confirmed by the senate — they are responsible to Kennedy alone and not to the congress, much less to the American people.

Better System The British have a better system. They place full responsibility on a cabinet, most of whose members have been elected or have served long terms in parliament. These men know the political game — they know the currents of public opinion. Alongside each of them, moreover, are career executives who do not go out of office with every change in ministry.

The presidency is almost a superhuman task. When will the American people demand a system of cabinet responsibility and a closer check on the dozens — yes, dozens — of persons in government who have access to the White House and constantly furnish the basic memoranda that influence a president's decisions?

President Kennedy is an honest, persevering and conscientious young man, and deserves to be supported when he is right. But was rendered by those who voted for him and by those who have week ago. Owens said he did it to get publicity over his alleged party ticket is to fail today to speak out against "helter-skelter" in the executive branch of the government.

Approve Plans for Study of 2, 3 Year Training Plans

MADISON (AP) — The Senate approved Tuesday plans for an interim study of two and three year teacher training programs in Wisconsin.

A bill, calling for the study by the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, was passed by a 21-9 vote. The committee would report to the 1963 legislature on what it recommends for county teacher training facilities.

The bill, authored by Sen. Horace Wilkie, D - Madison, would have barred persons from teaching in public schools unless they had a college degree, but this was amended to provide for the study only.

The Senate voted 29-0 for legislation to allow a surviving spouse of a retired state employee to continue with the group health insurance program by paying the entire premium. The State Employees Association requested the bill's passage. The measure now goes to the Assembly.

Also passed and sent to the Assembly was a bill by Wilkie to give state employees identical coverage with private employees under the workmen's compensation act.

Private employees may collect workmen's compensation if injured in any activity in the interest of employers while state employees are limited to the type of injuries defined by law.

Another bill passed would appropriate $20,000 to the Civil War Centennial Committee. The vote was 18-11.

Man Who Whipped Boss Released From Jail, Pays Fine

MADISON (AP) — Former Tax Department employee Glenn Owens, 61, who horsewhipped his former boss over what he called a wrongful firing two years ago, has been released from jail on payment of his $100 fine.

Owens, who lives in the Dunn County community of Knapp, was jailed for attacking Dwight W. Mack, Motor Fuel Tax Division director in Mack's office a week ago. Owens said he did it to get publicity over his alleged party ticket is to fail today to speak out against "helter-skelter" in the executive branch of the government.

Owens first refused to allow his daughter to pay his fine, but finally agreed to it and was released.

Post Office '9' Posts Seventh Straight Win

Interlake	7 0	Post-Crescent	3 4
Miller Electric	4 2	Coated Paper	1 5
Valley Iron	3 3	AAL	1 1

The Post Office rolled to its seventh straight victory in the American Industrial Softball League Tuesday night with a 17-3 triumph over the Aid Association for Lutherans.

Interlake and Miller Electric both recorded wins to move into a second place tie. Interlake edged Valley Iron, 13-11, and Miller's thumped the Post-Crescent, 16-4. In the other league game played, Appleton Coated Paper edged Elm Tree, 5-4, in nine innings.

Dick Melcher fired a 3-hitter for the Post Office to lead the win over AAL. His mates backed him up with an 11-hit attack including three-for-four by Duke Krabbe.

Score Seven Runs

Interlake trailed, 10-6, going into the last of the fourth and then exploded for seven runs to take a commanding lead over Valley Iron. Reichelt and Bob Diener shared the pitching duties for the winners. Ed Gartzke was the loser and paced his team at the plate with four hits in five trips.

The Post-Crescent scored four runs in the first inning and held a 4-2 lead into the fifth frame when Miller Electric went on a rampage counting four in the fifth, sixth in the sixth and four in the seventh. Jerry Vanden Heuvel was the winning hurler and Sonny Kneepkens took the loss.

Coated Paper scored a run in the top of the ninth to break up a pitching duel between Elm Tree's Wuth and the winner's Lyle Hark.

Elm Tree scored twice in the first inning but Coated Paper tied it at 2-all with a pair in the top of the fourth. Elm Tree again took the lead with two runs in the last of the fourth and Coated Paper tied it again with two in the fifth.

It was a scoreless battle the rest of the way until the winning tally counted in the ninth.

Tab Kingpetch As 'Fighter Of the Month'

NEW YORK (AP)—Pone Kingpetch, the world flyweight champion from Thailand, today was named "Fighter of the Month" for June by Ring Magazine after his successful defense in Tokyo against Mitsunori Seki of Japan.

There were no major changes in the top 10 rankings in the heavyweight class although Bob Cleroux of Montreal advanced a peg to No. 9 by stopping Roy Harris and Alex Miteff.

Tom McNeely, unbeaten Arlington, Mass., boxer who is being considered as a September foe for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, was listed No. 10.

In the light heavy class, Giulio Rinaldi of Italy, beaten in his title bid by Archie Moore, dropped to No. 3 as Doug Jones of New York moved into the No. 2 spot, behind Harold Johnson, recognized as champ by the National Boxing association.

New Style Impressive Changing Speeds, Mixing Pitches Pays Off for Braves' Bob Buhl

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bob Buhl, Cardinals' fabled Stan Musial to double as he took his 10,000th official trip to the plate.

Card coach Harry (The Hat) Walker saying unkind things. Walker contended Buhl was "throwing spitballs and called for the ball for an inspection."

"He's been after me for three years," Buhl said. "He got mad once and I told him the next time he called for the ball, I'd throw it right at him. So I guess he was trying to get my goat."

Then Buhl insisted, "Why, I don't even know how to throw a spitball. I tried it during spring training three years ago, but it hurt my arm. So I don't tinker with it anymore."

Buhl served up the pitch that cost the Cardinals' fabled Stan Musial to double as he took his 10,000th official trip to the plate.

Trinity	3	2	St. Bernadette

Zion remained in first place in the Church American Softball League Tuesday by beating First English, 10-6.

In other league action, St. Bernadette upset First Methodist, 11-9, and Congregational beat Trinity, 15-8.

Dick Staedt led Zion from the mound and the plate. He slammed two hits in three trips — a triple and a double — and hauled the complete game allowing eight hits Denny Sauberlich, Don Goehring and Al Grest also doubled for Zion.

The victors trailed, 4-3, going into the sixth and final inning. They rallied for seven runs in the top of the sixth, and halted a First English rally after two runs scored. Ken Priebe was the losing pitcher.

Sixth-Inning Rally

St. Bernadette rallied for three runs in the sixth inning to post their first victory of the season. Tom Grishaber pitched the final three innings in relief of Bob Pruszyński, allowing one hit to collect the win. Grishaber also added a circuit clout and a double to lead the 12-hit attack. Jim Ciske doubled and tripled for the victors.

Marv Hinzman slammed a homer and a double and Mory Schlanser socked two home runs for First Methodist. Schlanser also hauled the distance for First Methodist taking the defeat.

Boya Stars

Don Boya slammed two doubles to lead Congregational. The winners rallied for nine runs in the second and five in the fourth innings. Jim Van Eyck collected the win for Congregational and also got two hits. He limited Trinity to four hits and walked eight.

Johnson's Record May Fail in AAU Decathlon Meet

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—

The Decathlon record of Ruler Johnson will be under attack Friday and Saturday at the National AAU decathlon championships.

Phil Mulkey of Memphis, third last year, unofficially topped Johnson's record in the South-eastern AAU at Memphis recently.

Others in the field include Terry Leonard, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

On the first day of competition the athletes compete in the 100-meter dash, broad jump, shot put, high jump and 400-meter dash. On the second day they will go in the 110-meter hurdles, discus, pole vault, javelin and 1,500-meter run.

friend, plate umpire Al Barlick offered a handshake.

"Barlick said 'give me five' and when I hesitated," Musial said, "he told me 'you're not worried about all the fans are you?'"

"So I shook hands with him. He really took me by surprise. I think that's the first time an umpire has ever shaken hands with me during a game."

A punt by Frank Thomas started the Braves on the way to their first run in the second. After Joe Adcock walked with two out, McMillan lashed a double off the wall in left. Frank Bolling was safe on an error by shortstop Alex Grammas in the sixth and Matthews followed with his homer.

End of Threat

The Cards got two on in the fourth on singles by Bill White and Ken Boyer but Musial popped up to end the threat. One of Simmons' singles and another by Carl Warwick put two on in the fifth but a White popup retired the side. Musial's double came with one away in the sixth, but he moved no farther.

The Braves and Cards close the series tonight with Milwaukee's Bob Hendley, 0-1, opposing Bob Gibson, 5-4.

Redlegs Outslug Cubs, 10-8, Keep 3-Game Margin

Los Angeles Beats Pittsburgh;
Groat and Mazerowski Benched

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The long malingering Milwaukee Braves may be on the move, and San Francisco hammered Cincinnati on a treadmill in that National League pennant race. With right-hander Bob Buhl winning his second in a row and pitching his first shutout of the season in a 3-0 victory at St. Louis Tuesday night, the Braves bounced back to .500 for the first time since Memorial Day. It was their seventh success in nine games and moved them within one game of fourth-place Pittsburgh, but they're still 9½ lengths back of Cincinnati.

Comeback Win
Fact is, the Braves are the only club in the NL that hasn't lost ground to the Reds over the past 10 days—they also were 9½ games behind on June 18. In that span, Milwaukee has picked up two games on Los Angeles, 3½ on San Francisco and three on Pittsburgh, the 2-3-4 clubs behind Cincinnati.

The Reds retained a three-game lead with a comeback, 10-8 decision over the Chicago Cubs for their 11th victory in 13 games. Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 9-5, and San Francisco hammered Philadelphia 12-5.

The Reds, after blowing a 3-1 lead, beat the Cubs with five runs in the seventh inning after two were out. Four consecutive pinch hitters reached base in the rally, which capped by a three-run, was pinch triple by Jerry Lynch. Jay Hook won his first, in relief. Bob Anderson (4-6) was the loser in relief. Billy Williams, Sammy Taylor and Don Zimmer homered for the Cubs, with Taylor belting two for three RBIs.

Five hits, one a two-run double by Norm Larker, gave the Dodgers a four-run third inning and a decisive, 6-1 lead against Pittsburgh starter Bob Friend (8-3). Dick Farrell (6-5) was the winner in relief. The two clubs swung for 30 hits, 16 by the Dodgers. It was the fourth defeat in five games for the Pirates, who benched shortstop Dick Groat and second baseman Bill Mazerowski, the heroes of last year's pennant and world championship.

Right-hander Juan Marichal (5-4) blanked Philadelphia on four hits for eight innings, then needed relief help from Stu Miller when the last-place Phils batted around for their five runs in the ninth. The Giants broke it open with three runs in the fourth. An interference call against Phillie catcher Clay Dalrymple enabled one run to score and Tom Haller followed with a two-run double. John Buzhardt (2-9) was the loser.

Extra Starts Paying Off For 'Whitey'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Whitey Ford, now only seven victories away from becoming a 20-game winner for the first time in his career, says people are always asking him why he's never made it before.

He had the answer ready after picking up victory No. 13 Monday night as the New York Yankees defeated the Los Angeles Angels 8-6 on an 11th-hour home run by Bill Skowron.

"I've made 18 starts already this year," Ford said, "and I could make as many as 42 before the season's over. The most I've ever had before was about 32."

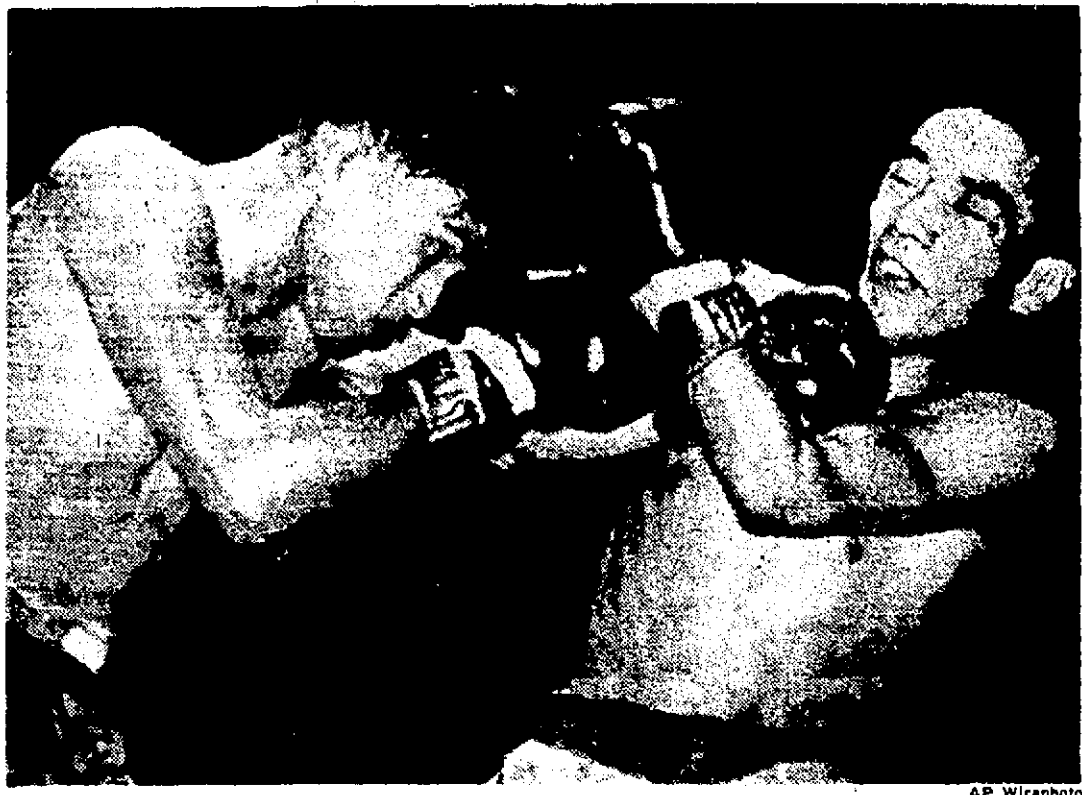

"The answer is that if you get only 30 or 32 starts it's almost impossible."

Duluth-Superior Beats Winnipeg

Duluth-Superior downed Winnipeg 15-10 in the Northern League Tuesday night in a slugfest that saw 29 hits by the two clubs, 14 of them for extra bases.

The other four squads in the loop were travelling.

Grand Slam for Meyer Oshkosh Legion '9' Beats Menasha, 8-4

MENASHA—Rick Meyer belted a grand slam home run in the fourth inning Tuesday night as his Oshkosh American Legion baseball team defeated Menasha, 8-4.

Meyer's battery mate, Larry Kopitz, scattered 10 hits. Bill Starr, Menasha third sacker, had little trouble with the Oshkosh hurler, however, as he banged out four hits in five trips to the plate.

One of Starr's blows, together with an error, enabled Menasha to grab an early 1-0 lead. But five runs in the fourth, including Meyer's homer, gave Oshkosh an opportunity to coast home.

Meyer's blast came with Jim Monroe, Reggie Jungwirth and Phil Mirkes on base. Steve Lange had scored just prior to the long poke. Lange, Meyer and Rick Fenn, who followed the home run with a single, had the hits in the inning. Jungwirth had walked, and Mirkes was safe on an error.

Becker Doubles
Menasha scored a single marker in the fifth when Bill Becker doubled home Ken Stumpf, who had been safe on an error.

Oshkosh ran the court to 7-2 in the sixth as Meyer and Jungwirth helped out with base hits. Menasha closed the gap with two in the eighth and the winners added one last marker in the top of the ninth.

Manitowoc Chiefs
Open Sept. 9
Against Chicago
Post-Crescent News Service
MILWAUKEE—The Manitowoc County Chiefs will not play a home opener on Labor Day for the first time in 21 years. The Tri-State league football schedule pits the Chiefs against the Chicago Hornets at Manitowoc Sept. 9.

Manitowoc has been represented by amateur and semi-pro football teams since 1937, with two interruptions. General Manager Frank Bonk said home openers were on Labor Day ever since the first team was organized.

Other league openers send Calumet, Ind., to Racine Sept. 2 and Elmhurst, Ill., to Sheboygan Sept. 10. All teams will play 10 league games. Racine is working out an exhibition date with Cleveland of the new United League.

Wendt Hurls No-Hitter in Little League

Jerry Wendt pitched a no-hit game as the Breakfast Optimists beat SSAC, 5-0, in the Outagamie Bank Division of the Appleton Little League.

Baur Truck beat VFW in the State Bank division, and North Side Advance ment stopped Badger Highways, 4-0, in the Kiwanis Division.

The Optimists collected but four hits in support of Wendt but made good use of them. Tom Kennen hit the game's extra base hit, a double.

Fred Ehardt slammed a home run and a double driving in a total of five runs to lead Baur's 11-7 victory. VanderWildenberg added a double for the winners. Loos, Jack, and Rechner slammed doubles for VFW. Dennis Mannenbach was the winning hurler, striking out eight.

Wiesman, with a triple, and Johnson, with a double led the attack for Northside. Dillon was the winning pitcher.

Activity Curtailed at Kimberly Playground
KIMBERLY — Summer school classes and recreation activities will not be held July 3 and 4, but will resume July 5.

Events at the playgrounds on July 5 will have a patriotic theme, with a doll buggy, bicycle, wagon and tricycle parade and a costume contest. Prizes will be awarded for the best decorated and long on Chuck Smiley, with two out, finally fanning him and setting off a signal to his teammates to mob him as he came off the mound.

Flavin Hurls No-Hitter Against Foxes

The 6-foot, 2-inch, lefty hit Jim Liggett and walked "Photti" Anthony in the fourth inning after retiring 10 men in a row. The error, a fielder's choice by Nellie Cochran, and the walk to Caldwell accounted for the five base runners.

Larry Rancourt, Flavin's battery mate, gave him perfect support as he played flawlessly behind the plate and had four hits in four plate appearances, including a double and a triple. Shortstop Tom Helms drove in five runs with a triple, a single and a sacrifice fly.

Dave Vineyard, Joe Puleo and Anthony shared mound duties for the Foxes. Anthony drew the plaudits of the fans in the sixth inning as he retired Topeka in order, fanning Queen for the third out. Vineyard took his fifth loss against two victories.

The nightcap was highlighted by a rhubarb in the fifth inning when Topeka scored three runs to tie the score and erase the advantage the Foxes had gained on Bowen's 3-run homer.

Ball Hits Dawson
Weaver stamped, stomped, and screamed when Jerry Dawson was safe on the first of two errors to occur after he hit a ground ball to Bowen at shortstop. Bowen threw low to first, and after the ball hit Dawson, Smiley committed the second error by throwing the ball past third base. The bases were loaded before Dawson came to the plate and all three runners scored, including Miles McWilliams, who ran over Topeka manager Dave Bristol who was coaching at third. McWilliams collided with Bristol about midway between third and the plate.

The fiery Foxes' manager announced to Plate Umpire Lou Casciano that he was playing the game under protest and it was cited that "assisting the base runner" may be the basis of the official protest.

Weaver was ejected by Casciano, an inning later, when he appeared on the field with a rule book in hand.

Topeka scored their deciding marker in the top of the seventh when Dave McNally dished up an inside fast ball to Tom Harper. The Topeka keystone sent it high over the fence in right center field.

The Reds added two runs in the eighth on five walks and a sacrifice. The eighth was only one of two innings in the game that vehicles and to the youngsters wearing the most authentic patriotic costume.

Starter McNally took the loss, his fourth against three victories. He is 1-3 at Goodland Field and 2-1 on the road.

FOXES TALES . . . The no-hit pitcher, Flavin, turned 19 years old on May 7. . . He was signed on May 10, 1960, for what "large" bonus and finished the year at Palatka (Class D Florida State League), compiling a 1-2 record. . . Mickey Mattice, the scheduled Topeka pitcher in tonight's game, hurled a 1-0 win in his last start.

U. S. Must Remember Intervention Is Violation of 'Rule of Law'

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

At the end of a very fair post-mortem on the Cuban failure, Mr. Stewart Alsop writes in the "Saturday Evening Post" that: "If the Communists are permitted indefinitely to retain their present monopoly of the techniques of the oblique thrust, the invasion by proxy, they will win in the end all over the world as they are winning now in South-east Asia."

This raises, though it does not answer, the question which greatly troubles the country: In order to resist and repel the advance of Communism, how far may we and should we go in fighting fire with fire — resorting, as Communists in fact do resort, to illegal means such as the violation of treaties and of international law and of the Charter of the United Nations?

As the beginning of an answer, we may say that the basic rule is that intervention is lawful if it is done in support of an existing government at the request of that government. It would be lawful, for example, for the United States to put our whole army and air force in South Vietnam if President Diem asked for it. It is unlawful for the Soviet Union to give one rifle to a guerrilla fighter against President Diem's government.

Emphasize Two Points
I am using these extreme examples to emphasize two points. One is that within the law there is no theoretical limit on how much intervention is permissible to defend a government which asks to be defended. The second point is that the law forbids intervention to overthrow a government, which is why our venture in Cuba and why the Soviet venture in South Vietnam are both illegal.

If we look at the situation from the point of view of high policy, we must remember that under the rule of law, intervention unless it is requested by the lawful government, is forbidden, but it to promote revolution as in South Vietnam or to promote counter-revolution as in Cuba.

We should think two or three times before we declare as some among us have been advocating, that in view of the illegal activities of the Communist we are no longer bound by the rule of law, and that we are free to intervene when and where we choose.

They forget that in a revolutionary age like this one, the rule of law is the armor of conservatism, and to throw it away in a fit of frustration over Castro, would be to strip ourselves and our allies of their strongest defenses.

The proof of how mighty is the rule of law is that while the Soviet Union violates the rule of law and intervenes illegally, it never dares to defy the rule and to denounce it as a capitalist and reactionary device. Were we to follow the hotblooded by adopting a policy of illegal intervention, we should be silenced when Moscow and Peking intervene.

In abandoning the rule of law, which is at the very heart of Western freedom, we would have cast away our power to oppose revolutionary Communism with anything except physical force.

Does Loyalty Work
But, we must ask ourselves, does loyalty to the rule of law mean that we must abandon all intelligence work? For almost all of it is contrary to the laws of the country which is spied upon.

The answer is no. The textbooks of international law which I have looked into are curiously silent about the fact — known to all historians and observers of affairs — that spying on each other and secret efforts to influence each other are the ancient and universal practice of great states. There is in international relations a public world and there is also an underworld. The relationship between the public world and the underworld — between the governments in office and the spies — has never been codified. But there have developed certain rules — a kind of common law — one of these rules is that if a spy is caught, he is disavowed and left to his fate.

U-2 Affair
This, by the way, was the rule that President Eisenhower violated in the U-2 affair. Another rule is that the secret operation must remain secret in the sense that it remains invisible, that it is never acknowledged, its failures are never explained, and its successes are never celebrated.

This is a limiting rule for wide open democracy like our own. It means that while clandestine help can be given to the Cuban underground, an operation of the size and character of the Cuban invasion cannot be undertaken.

As affecting the United States there is no great difference between what is feasible in practice and what is permissible in law. It was not feasible to overthrow Castro with 1,400 refugees, and it was unlawful to attempt it. But it is feasible, and in the practice of states it is not prohibited, to give clandestine help, so long as it remains clandestine, to Castro's opponents.

So while the rule of law does not have to be obeyed absolutely and literally, the rule of law must not be broken flagrantly and defied publicly.

Chairmen for Holy Hour Make Plans

Committee chairmen planning the Holy Hour sponsored by the Outagamie County Deaneary of the Holy Name Societies met June 22 to plan the event.

Don Long is general chairman for the annual Holy Hour, scheduled this year for 8:30 p.m. August 28 at Goodland field. Assisting him is Bernard Blob, who is also responsible for parking, police and music.

Altar decorations will be handled by Joseph Cummings. Theodore Hartjes is in charge of altar construction and reception.

George Steiner will arrange ushers and programs. Erwin Klein, Mackville, will arrange for servers.

Ray Pritzl will handle flag raising ceremonies and the Rev. Alfred Hietpas, Freedom, the liturgy. Newspaper publicity will be taken care of by Dan Steinberg Jr.

Tavern Owner Denies He Sold Beer to Minors

OSHKOSH — Preliminary hearing was set July 18 for Clarence Suttner, 39, 889 Seventh St., Menasha, owner of the White Swan Tavern in the Town of Menasha, on a charge of serving beer to minors.

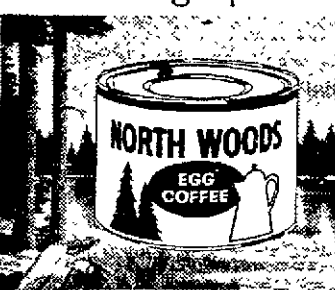

Suttner was arrested at 12:44 a.m. by Winnebago County Police after Menasha police reported that a 16-year-old Neenah boy had told them he was served beer at the tavern.

The youth told Menasha police that he did not have an identification card and that he was not asked to show one at the tavern. The boy had been picked up by Menasha police after creating a disturbance at a Menasha filling station.

Real Egg Coffee...

FOR THOSE WHO APPRECIATE THE BEST
This is fine old-fashioned egg coffee. The choicest coffees have been blended in-the-roast with fresh eggs, just the way good cooks have been preparing coffee for generations. You get a richer, stronger flavor, yet never bitter. You get more cups per pound, so North Woods costs about the same per cup as ordinary coffees.
